As Followup To Plane Incident

Ike Expected To Call On Khrushchev For Scrapping Of Military Secrecy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower reportedly plans to follow up the U. S.-Soviet spy-plane row by calling on Premier Nikita Khrushchev at next week's summit conference to join in scrapping military secrecy.

While top administration officials privately deplored the way in which the whole fantastic episode has developed, they ruled out any inclination toward a defensive approach by the President or his advisers at the Paris summit meeting.

The President is represented as feeling rather that the sensational incident dramatizes as possibly nothing else could the U. S. view that the Soviet Union's "iron curtain" system of concealment is a major source of tension and fear of war throughout the Free World.

Eisenhower conferred with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at the White House late Sunday for 75 minutes after he returned from a weekend at Gettysburg, Pa. Herter is just back from Allied conferences in the Middle East, and it was their first meeting in 10 days.

(The New York Times said in a Washington dispatch today that it was stated on responsible authority that President Eisenhower has ordered a halt to all flights over or near Communist frontiers pending an executive investigation of the entire intelligence apparatus of the government.)

Eisenhower is due to leave Saturday for Paris and the summit conference opening next Monday. In advance of the Big Four session with Khrushchev, he will confer with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and French President Charles de Gaulle.

FRANCIS G. POWERS, being held by the Russians, is shown in a photo taken while he was in U. S. Air Force flight training.

The key question now in the pre-summit speculation of official Washington was how Khrushchev would react to the U. S. admission. The State Department officially acknowledged Saturday that a high-flying American jet aircraft had "probably" made an information-gathering flight over Soviet territory a week ago, but said the trip was not authorized from Washington. Khrushchev said the plane was shot down and the pilot captured alive and well. The formal statement also bluntly reported that for the past four years "planes of the type of unarmed civilian U2 aircraft have made flights along the frontiers of the Free World."

In the context of the entire statement, this meant simply that for four years these planes have been employed along the iron curtain of the Soviet Union to discover as much as possible of what was going on behind the wall of secrecy.

A part of the statement also denounced Soviet secrecy as a source of danger of surprise attack. It was prepared under Herter's direction and cleared with Eisenhower.

Allied officials in Western Europe were described in press dispatches as deeply concerned that the incident had damaged Eisenhower's position in summit negotiations. Some described the President's situation as very embarrassing.

Congressional reaction varied from grave concern to a so-what attitude, but most members were restrained in their comment. Some expressed the view that in the face of a ticklish situation, it's best for Congress to keep quiet.

The U.S. statement disavowed any personal responsibility of the President or any other Washington authority for the espionage mission. It said that an investigation ordered by the President showed that "insofar as the authorities in Washington are concerned there was no authorization for any such flight as described by Mr. Khrushchev."

Presidential Rivals Near End Of Bitter West Virginia Fight

Outmanned GOP Faces Rough Time

Democrats Hold Big Registration Edge In West Virginia Vote

CHARLESTON (AP) — When the Republican voters choose their candidates in tomorrow's West Virginia primary election, they'll know it will be even tougher than before to get them into office.

Whether Harold Neely or Chapman Revercomb wins the party's nomination for governor, he will have to pull tens of thousands of Democratic votes come November, or lose.

Conversely, the Democratic victor in the three-way race among W. W. Barron, Orel J. Skeen and Hullett C. Smith will be as good as elected — if party loyalties hold and if the trend since the general election of 1958 does not drastically reverse itself.

Totals compiled at the secretary of state's office over the weekend showed the Democrats have increased their numbers by 6,741, to 670,835, while the Republicans have lost 13,833, to stand at 398,734. This means that now there are 270,101 more registered Democrats than Republicans. Put differently, for every five Democrats there are only three Republicans.

With a smaller majority in 1958 and a smaller turnout than the Republicans, the Democrats won by a landslide, taking both U.S. senatorships, adding a representative, and building their majority in the House to Delegates to 85-15 and in the State Senate to 23-9.

The changes since have left the Republicans only 13 out of the 55 counties in which they outnumber the Democrats. They used to have 15. Switches came in the smallest county and one of the biggest. In Wirt the Democrats took over 1,438 to 1,344 after being behind 1,474 to 1,448. In Ohio they did it on 21,767 to 20,841 after trailing 20,058 to 19,179.

Taken altogether, the way it stands now out of every 100 registered West Virginia voters 62 are Democrats, 37 are Republicans and one is independent or belongs to some other party.

As nobody in the state has to be reminded after 1956, party loyalties do not always hold and Republicans can be elected for state office.

Two of the Democratic candidates for governor already have gotten into a serious fight that may dog both of them for a long time. Orel J. Skeen has alleged that W. W. Barron offered him

Races For Sheriff Hold Spotlight In Hancock Election

Contests for the nomination of sheriff will draw the major interest in Hancock County's primary Tuesday as West Virginians go to the polls to nominate candidates for the general election in November.

But the primary spotlight will also focus on the nomination for county prosecuting attorney along with two judgeships in the 1st Judicial Circuit.

The eligible voters in the county — a record 21,803 — will find the longest ballots in years awaiting them when they arrive at the polls in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland, Weirton and other sites.

Long Democrat Ballot

The Democratic voters will mark ballots some 24-inches long listing 67 candidates on the national ticket, 34 on the state, 18 for the county and 16 for Grant District in Chester and Newell.

The Republican ballot is only a little less large and lists 25 candidates for national posts, 21 for state, 9 for county and 17 for Grant District.

In addition, voters also will receive a small ballot listing five non-partisan candidates for the County Board of Education.

50 Per Cent Turnout Expected In Hancock

Though showers are predicted by the weatherman, Donald Stewart, veteran Hancock County clerk, today forecast a "Better than 50 per cent turnout" at the polls Tuesday in the primary.

If Stewart's prediction holds true, some 11,000 voters will cast ballots, as 21,803 are eligible. Stewart based his forecast on unusually high interest in the party nominations for sheriff, assessor and prosecuting attorney.

Hancock Democrats outnumber Republicans by 13,775 to 7,988, according to County Clerk Donald S. Stewart.

State Ticket To Be Voted

On the state ticket, Hancock voters will ballot on the post of state senator from the 1st District and the two judgeships from the 1st District.

Controversy On Religion Brought Out

Roosevelt Inflames Humphrey With Slap At His War Record

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) today wind up the bitterest presidential campaign of this young election year.

Some 670,000 registered Democrats will have much to say Tuesday about the political future of both.

Sunday night Kennedy openly discussed what probably is the biggest single factor in their vigorous, month-long contest: his Roman Catholic religion.

He told a television audience:

"I have not been able to convince, apparently, the people that I have the same convictions they do: The belief in the Constitution, and the separation of church and state."

"If any Pope attempted to influence me as president," he added, "I would tell him it was completely improper."

West Virginia has 4.9 per cent Catholics. The rest can be considered Protestants, even though only 2 per cent have formal church ties.

This is the first time a Catholic has been entered in a presidential primary in West Virginia since 1928. Alfred E. Smith of New York won handily in the spring over Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri, but lost the state to Herbert Hoover in the general election by more than 100,000 votes.

None of the principals that year campaigned in the state.

Humphrey is a Congregationalist. He attended Methodist services Sunday.

Humphrey was spending his final hours stressing his modest background as compared with Kennedy's millions—"I can't go running around the state with a little black bag and a checkbook"—and raking Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Young FDR over the weekend inflamed Humphrey with references to Humphrey's lack of a war record. He said Humphrey had asked for deferments during World War II to work politically, while Kennedy was serving as a patrol boat skipper in the South Pacific.

Roosevelt's campaigning for Kennedy, especially in the economically distressed areas of southern West Virginia, was a natural. His father's name (former President Roosevelt) still works magic among the labor-conscious miners there.

"It is a sorry spectacle," retorted Humphrey, "for the Franklin Roosevelt New Dealers to see the proud and illustrious name of his father being so degraded by Junior when he performs as the 'hatchet man' for the Kennedy forces."

To Humphrey's accusation that he was engaging in gutter politics, Kennedy said:

"I've never criticized Hubert Humphrey personally. He's a very vigorous and able senator. When this is all over, I hope our relationship will again be a friendly one."

Kennedy has said he will be satisfied if he receives 45 per cent of the vote. Humphrey has expressed confidence that he will win—"everything's going to be all right"—but has refused to estimate what margin he believes he will win by.

'DON'T DRIVE LIKE 60'

A Homeworth area woman was killed this morning in a three-car crash near Damascus, climaxing a weekend of traffic mishaps which injured at least 6, including 2 city women.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said rain - slick roads, heavy traffic and carelessness caused the sudden rise in highway crashes.

Mrs. Alberta Fogarascher, 48, of Homeworth R. D. 1 was pronounced dead at Alliance City Hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a spectacular collision on Route 62 some 3 miles west of Damascus around 5:45 a. m.

The patrol said she was in a car driven by her husband, Ernest, also 48, who was headed south on 12th St. Ext., Sebring. Fogarascher apparently pulled out onto Route 62 into the path of a

City Men Shot During Tussle For Revolver

Two men wounded early Sunday in a struggle for possession of a revolver in the lobby of the Travelers Hotel remain in City Hospital today.

Robert Salsberry, 34, of 208 W. 7th St., an Ohio River deckhand who had been asked to leave the room of a hotel guest, is in "fairly good" condition with a wound of the lower abdomen and right leg.

Albert Barnes, 65, of 506 Sugar St., night clerk at the hotel, is in "good" condition with a wound of the left hand.

No charges have been filed in the double shooting pending completion of the investigation, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said. The chief also pointed out he wants to confer with Asst. City Solicitor Richard J. Clark, who is ill today.

Barnes told Lt. Michael Winters, who was in charge of the investigation, the fight started after Salsberry was asked to leave the room of a hotel resident.

When he telephoned the occupant and said Salsberry would have to leave, the former Marine came to the lobby and started the trouble, Barnes told police. Barnes said

Dresden Crash Hurts 5

Car Mishap Hurls Woman From Bed

Five persons were injured in a spectacular two-car crash in the 1900 block of Dresden Ave. early Sunday, including a woman who said she was thrown from her bed by the impact created when one of the autos dived over a 20-foot embankment and came to a halt a few feet from her home.

The crash at 12:27 a. m. involved a southbound 1951 sedan operated by Jason C. Hyatt, 24, of 1701 Pennsylvania Ave. and a northbound 1959 sedan operated by Edwin E. Hemelrick, 38, of Garrettsville R. D. 2, officers said.

After the collision, Hyatt's auto went over an embankment and came to a halt an estimated 3 to 5 feet from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Gourley, 1935 Dresden Ave.

The list of injured included Mrs. Kate Gourley, 25, a nurse's aide, who said she was thrown from her bed by the impact caused as the auto dived over the embankment. She was treated at City Hospital for bruises of the nose and right cheek.

Also hurt in the collision were:

Hyatt, treated at the Hospital for a small laceration of the nose and cheek, a large laceration of the arm and possible chest injuries.

Richard Bosworth, 26, of 215 Walnut St., a passenger with Hyatt, admitted to the hospital with a deep laceration of the right hip. His condition today is "fairly good."

Jane Hyatt, 25, wife of the local driver, treated for a possible fracture of the right arm, abrasions of the left ankle and knee, a laceration of the thumb and contusions of the forehead. She was admitted briefly, then later discharged.

Helen Hemelrick, 38, wife of the other driver, in "fairly good" condition with injuries of the legs and possible injuries to her hip and the left side of her face.

Police said Hyatt admitted he was driving at a high rate of speed and that his windshield wipers were out of order, so that he was too close to avoid a collision when he saw the oncoming Hemelrick auto. Hyatt also admitted he was driving on the left of the center line, officers said.

Hemelrick said Hyatt was driving south in the northbound lane, officers said. Hemelrick said he pulled over to the southbound lane in an attempt to avoid a headon collision with Hyatt. After the collision between the two cars, Hyatt's car proceeded south, went over the embankment and stopped with its nose just short of the Gourley home, officers said.

Hyatt was charged with reckless driving as an aftermath of the mishap.

The 24 year-old driver pleaded guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning, but the judge delayed sentencing until 3 p. m. so he can learn additional information about the accident from Patrolman E. R. Ferguson.

Two 18-year-old drivers were injured in another collision at 5:07 p. m. Saturday on St. Clair Ave. at Morton St., officers said.

Ila Goempel, 207 Haywood St., was treated at the hospital for an abrasion of the lip. Donald Menear, 1028 Dresden Ave., was treated for a contusion of the forehead.

Police said Miss Goempel was driving north, followed by Menear, who was driving a pickup truck owned by Triangle Products Co. of St. Clair Ave., when the truck collided with the rear of the car. Menear told police a cooler upset in the back of his truck and he was attempting to halt when the collision occurred.

Miss Goempel pleaded not guilty and her hearing was set for 3:30 p. m. in Municipal Court on a charge of failing to stop within the assured clear distance.

Two autos were damaged in another spectacular crash Saturday

'Greatest Calamity' Talked Of By Moscow

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio declared today activity by the U.S. military such as sending a spy plane over the Soviet Union threatens to involve the world "in the greatest calamity."

Implying that President Eisenhower could not be held responsible — as did Premier Nikita Khrushchev himself in announcing the plane had been shot—Moscow radio declared:

"The Pentagon is the father of the many war blocs that encompass the main areas of the globe. However, authorization (for the spy plane's flight) was not received from Washington by the U.S. military and the intelligence service."

Though officials gloated over the shooting down of the American spy plane, some citizens seemed disturbed that it managed to get so deep into Soviet territory.

New System Of Blasts Seen By Scientists

Underground Tests Reported Possible Without Detection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Muffled nuclear blasts with five times the punch of the first atomic bombs can be exploded underground without detection until new monitoring systems are developed, American scientists have predicted.

They said it probably will take several years to develop the new system.

The time estimate was made Sunday by the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee in a summary based on testimony by physicists and other scientists during hearings last month. Among these testifying were Dr. Hans Bethe, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Alvin C. Graves.

The summary was made public a day after President Eisenhower announced the United States would start a new series of underground nuclear tests, possibly before the end of this year. However, the congressional report was prepared some time before the White House announcement.

Eisenhower said the tests would be for peaceful purposes of atomic energy, including development of a detection system.

The United States has conducted no nuclear tests since the fall of 1958. Before that, only one U.S. underground shot had been touched off which could be used for detection estimates.

The congressional summary said "it seems that for the next several years and possibly thereafter there could be a race between improved means of concealing and muffling nuclear tests."

It also pointed out the great difficulty of determining the difference between underground nuclear blasts and natural earthquakes.

Among the scientists testifying were Dr. Hans Bethe, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Alvin C. Graves.

City Men Shot During Tussle For Revolver

Two men wounded early Sunday in a struggle for possession of a revolver in the lobby of the Travelers Hotel remain in City Hospital today.

Robert Salsberry, 34, of 208 W. 7th St., an Ohio River deckhand who had been asked to leave the room of a hotel guest, is in "fairly good" condition with a wound of the lower abdomen and right leg.

Albert Barnes, 65, of 506 Sugar St., night clerk at the hotel, is in "good" condition with a wound of the left hand.

No charges have been filed in the double shooting pending completion of the investigation, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said. The chief also pointed out he wants to confer with Asst. City Solicitor Richard J. Clark, who is ill today.

Barnes told Lt. Michael Winters, who was in charge of the investigation, the fight started after Salsberry was asked to leave the room of a hotel resident.

When he telephoned the occupant and said Salsberry would have to leave, the former Marine came to the lobby and started the trouble, Barnes told police. Barnes said

Dresden Crash Hurts 5

Car Mishap Hurls Woman From Bed

Five persons were injured in a spectacular two-car crash in the 1900 block of Dresden Ave. early Sunday, including a woman who said she was thrown from her bed by the impact created when one of the autos dived over a 20-foot embankment and came to a halt a few feet from her home.

The crash at 12:27 a. m. involved a southbound 1951 sedan operated by Jason C. Hyatt, 24, of 1701 Pennsylvania Ave. and a northbound 1959 sedan operated by Edwin E. Hemelrick, 38, of Garrettsville R. D. 2, officers said.

After the collision, Hyatt's auto went over an embankment and came to a halt an estimated 3 to 5 feet from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Gourley, 1935 Dresden Ave.

The list of injured included Mrs. Kate Gourley, 25, a nurse's aide, who said she was thrown from her bed by the impact caused as the auto dived over the embankment. She was treated at City Hospital for bruises of the nose and right cheek.

Also hurt in the collision were:

Hyatt, treated at the Hospital for a small laceration of the nose and cheek, a large laceration of the arm and possible chest injuries.

Richard Bosworth, 26, of 215 Walnut St., a passenger with Hyatt, admitted to the hospital with a deep laceration of the right hip. His condition today is "fairly good."

Jane Hyatt, 25, wife of the local driver, treated for a possible fracture of the right arm, abrasions of the left ankle and knee, a laceration of the thumb and contusions of the forehead. She was admitted briefly, then later discharged.

Helen Hemelrick, 38, wife of the other driver, in "fairly good" condition with injuries of the legs and possible injuries to her hip and the left side of her face.

Police said Hyatt admitted he was driving at a high rate of speed and that his windshield wipers were out of order, so that he was too close to avoid a collision when he saw the oncoming Hemelrick auto. Hyatt also admitted he was driving on the left of the center line, officers said.

Hemelrick said Hyatt was driving south in the northbound lane, officers said. Hemelrick said he pulled over to the southbound lane in an attempt to avoid a headon collision with Hyatt. After the collision between the two cars, Hyatt's car proceeded south, went over the embankment and stopped with its nose just short of the Gourley home, officers said.

Hyatt was charged with reckless driving as an aftermath of the mishap.

The 24 year-old driver pleaded guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning, but the judge delayed sentencing until 3 p. m. so he can learn additional information about the accident from Patrolman E. R. Ferguson.

Two 18-year-old drivers were injured in another collision at 5:07 p. m. Saturday on St. Clair Ave. at Morton St., officers said.

Ila Goempel, 207 Haywood St., was treated at the hospital for an abrasion of the lip. Donald Menear, 1028 Dresden Ave., was treated for a contusion of the forehead.

Police said Miss Goempel was driving north, followed by Menear, who was driving a pickup truck owned by Triangle Products Co. of St. Clair Ave., when the truck collided with the rear of the car. Menear told police a cooler upset in the back of his truck and he was attempting to halt when the collision occurred.

Miss Goempel pleaded not guilty and her hearing was set for 3:30 p. m. in Municipal Court on a charge of failing to stop within the assured clear distance.

Two autos were damaged in another spectacular crash Saturday

Pravda Slaps At U.S. Story In Plane Case

Some Russians Are Disturbed That Craft Penetrated Border

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, today called Francis G. Powers' jet flight over Soviet territory further proof of the necessity for the highest Soviet vigilance against attack.

'Greatest Calamity' Talked Of By Moscow

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio declared today activity by the U.S. military such as sending a spy plane over the Soviet Union threatens to involve the world "in the greatest calamity."

Implying that President Eisenhower could not be held responsible — as did Premier Nikita Khrushchev himself in announcing the plane had been shot—Moscow radio declared:

"The Pentagon is the father of the many war blocs that encompass the main areas of the globe. However, authorization (for the spy plane's flight) was not received from Washington by the U.S. military and the intelligence service."

Though officials gloated over the shooting down of the American spy plane, some citizens seemed disturbed that it managed to get so deep into Soviet territory.

Pravda denounced the U.S. State Department's explanation as impudent and cynical and denied

Show Of Cars Postponed By Weekend Rain

Over 2 Inches Falls In 48-Hour Stretch; Phone Lines Hit

A steady rain that reached torrential proportions at times dropped more than 2 inches of rain on the tri-state area over the weekend, forcing the Junior Chamber of Commerce to cancel its auto show scheduled Saturday and Sunday at Skyview Theater, near Calcutta.

Dam 8 at Newell measured 2.02 inches of rain in the 48-hour period ending at 7 this morning—and the rain continued. Light showers fell before noon today and the Ohio weatherman said the rain will continue this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday.

Some 25 telephone customers still were without service today as Ohio Bell Telephone Co. crews worked to repair damage caused by the heavy weekend rains.

T. Fred Edwards, commercial manager, said service is expected to be restored late this afternoon

New System Of Blasts Seen By Scientists

Underground Tests Reported Possible Without Detection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Muffled nuclear blasts with five times the punch of the first atomic bombs can be exploded underground without detection until new monitoring systems are developed, American scientists have predicted.

They said it probably will take several years to develop the new system.

The time estimate was made Sunday by the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee in a summary based on testimony by physicists and other scientists during hearings last month. Among these testifying were Dr. Hans Bethe, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Alvin C. Graves.

The summary was made public a day after President Eisenhower announced the United States would start a new series of underground nuclear tests, possibly before the end of this year. However, the congressional report was prepared some time before the White House announcement.

Eisenhower said the tests would be for peaceful purposes of atomic energy, including development of a detection system.

The United States has conducted no nuclear tests since the fall of 1958. Before that, only one U.S. underground shot had been touched off which could be used for detection estimates.

The congressional summary said "it seems that for the next several years and possibly thereafter there could be a race between improved means of concealing and muffling nuclear tests."

It also pointed out the great difficulty of determining the difference between underground nuclear blasts and natural earthquakes.

Among the scientists testifying were Dr. Hans Bethe, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Alvin C. Graves.

Pre-School Signup Set For City First Grades

A pre-school registration for children entering the first grade next September will be held Wednesday from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. in each of the city's elementary buildings, Asst. Supt. Paul Blair said today.

Blair warned parents children must be 6 on or before Sept. 15 to enter school next term. He asked parents to bring all immunization records and a birth certificate.

A new Board of Education policy requires all children must be vaccinated against smallpox and have immunizations against polio, tetanus, whooping cough and diphtheria.

To allow first grade teachers an opportunity to meet parents and new pupils, first grade children will be dismissed at noon, Blair said.

Traffic

at 5:12 p. m. on the W. 8th St. "super road" 300 feet west of Shadyside Ave., but the occupants apparently escaped injury.

The crash involved a 1956 sedan driven by Robert L. Moffett, 19, of 206 Grant St., Newell, and a 1958 model truck operated by Larry D. Zwick, 19, of Hammondsville R. D. 1, officers said.

Moffett's eastbound auto began to slide, hit the guard rails along the highway, spun around, crossed the medial strip and then struck the Zwick vehicle, officers said. The auto was traveling backwards when it hit the truck, police said.

Lt. Thomas A. Walker said he counted 36 paces from the point where the car left the road to the spot where it hit the guard rail; 79 paces from that point to the spot where it crossed the medial strip, and 40 paces from that point to the site of the impact.

Judge Chertoff fined Moffett $25 and costs and suspended his right to drive in Ohio for 30 days after the Newell youth pleaded guilty to reckless operation.

Meanwhile, Emmet R. Rawlings, 75, of the Ceramic Hotel, told police he was struck by a truck Saturday at 11:45 a. m. while walking across Broadway at E. 5th St. Rawlings said he suffered injuries of the arm and right side.

Rawlings said the truck, turning from 5th onto Broadway, hit him as he crossed the wide intersection. He said the driver stopped and talked with him, but he didn't obtain the driver's name or address.

Ray E. Gamble of 18th St. Heights told police his 1959 four-door sedan was damaged by a hit-skip vehicle while it was parked on Dresden Ave. at Webber Way Saturday night. He said the car had been parked about 90 minutes when he discovered the damage at 11:30. Witnessess furnished police with a description of the offending car.

Howard Keevert, 57, of R. D. 2 told police his 1957 sedan was damaged by a hit-skip car at Lincoln Ave. and Smith St. about 8:10 Saturday night.

Keevert said he was driving north on Lincoln when the other auto turned the corner, struck his car and continued without stopping.

A collision at W. 5th and Market Sts. at 4:26 p. m. Sunday damaged a parked 1956 coupe owned by Earl Fullerton, 1308 Pennsylvania Ave. and a 1952 sedan operated by Vera E. Brereton, 40, of 1177 Lisbon St., officers said.

Wells High placed five members on the All-State Band picked from 34 schools at the festival. They were Janet Wilson, bass horn, Bob Raimond, baritone horn, Clarence Wilson, trombone, Judy Jackson, clarinet, and Carolyn Brenneman, clarinet.

Band members were quartered in the Waldo Hotel. Chaperones included Mrs. Ward Jackson, Mrs. Mae Hupp, Mrs. Pearl Burnside, Mrs. Alfred Bowen, Mrs. Donald Calhoun, Mrs. Vaughn Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shepherd, and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Gibas.

Superior Rating Given For Chester Marching

The Chester High School band received a "superior" rating for marching and a "very good" rating for playing at the Area Two Band Festival Friday and Saturday at Clarksburg.

Six members of the band played with the All-Area Band at the event and received certificates for their participation. About 33 bands from northern West Virginia attended.

John Clovis, director, and eight band mothers accompanied the band, which traveled in two buses.

at 5:12 p. m. on the W. 8th St. "super road" 300 feet west of Shadyside Ave., but the occupants apparently escaped injury.

The crash involved a 1956 sedan driven by Robert L. Moffett, 19, of 206 Grant St., Newell, and a 1958 model truck operated by Larry D. Zwick, 19, of Hammondsville R. D. 1, officers said.

Moffett's eastbound auto began to slide, hit the guard rails along the highway, spun around, crossed the medial strip and then struck the Zwick vehicle, officers said. The auto was traveling backwards when it hit the truck, police said.

Lt. Thomas A. Walker said he counted 36 paces from the point where the car left the road to the spot where it hit the guard rail; 79 paces from that point to the spot where it crossed the medial strip, and 40 paces from that point to the site of the impact.

Judge Chertoff fined Moffett $25 and costs and suspended his right to drive in Ohio for 30 days after the Newell youth pleaded guilty to reckless operation.

Meanwhile, Emmet R. Rawlings, 75, of the Ceramic Hotel, told police he was struck by a truck Saturday at 11:45 a. m. while walking across Broadway at E. 5th St. Rawlings said he suffered injuries of the arm and right side.

Rawlings said the truck, turning from 5th onto Broadway, hit him as he crossed the wide intersection. He said the driver stopped and talked with him, but he didn't obtain the driver's name or address.

Ray E. Gamble of 18th St. Heights told police his 1959 four-door sedan was damaged by a hit-skip vehicle while it was parked on Dresden Ave. at Webber Way Saturday night. He said the car had been parked about 90 minutes when he discovered the damage at 11:30. Witnessess furnished police with a description of the offending car.

Howard Keevert, 57, of R. D. 2 told police his 1957 sedan was damaged by a hit-skip car at Lincoln Ave. and Smith St. about 8:10 Saturday night.

Keevert said he was driving north on Lincoln when the other auto turned the corner, struck his car and continued without stopping.

A Look At The Census Figures

Any loss in population is a blow to civic pride, regardless of the circumstances behind it.

The blow was there when census figures revealed East Liverpool's total had dropped by 2,059 in the last 10 years.

This marks the first reversal in population expansion here since establishment of the pottery industry spurred the growth of the community well over a century ago.

The decline in the number of city residents conceivably could have an effect on community prestige, in addition to altering certain incomes dependent upon per capita figures and other aspects of government and business.

Actually, however, the reduction in population represents no great loss of residents. It reflects instead the national trend of movement to the suburbs. The city's population has not dwindled so much as it has spread outward, without being accompanied by legal boundaries.

This shifting has been under way for years, given incentive by increased use of the automobile and the demands for newer and larger homes in the face of restricted space for residential development in our hill-bounded community.

Reduction of dinnerware activity in East Liverpool undoubtedly contributed to a degree to the population pattern, but at the same time expansion of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. and other area industries has provided new attractions for job hunters.

The census figures should not be regarded as an omen of decline. They do, however, carry a clearcut warning as to the need for positive action toward planning for an improved East Liverpool.

Lack of zoning and community planning in the past have helped create conditions from which some residents have moved away in the last decade or so.

We have certain areas that are run down and unattractive, but which could be developed as municipal assets. We have traffic problems that call for continued attention in the hope that our fullest potential as a marketing center can be developed.

We have progressive schools, capable municipal services, growing recreation facilities, cultural and entertainment offerings and many other attributes, none of which, however, could not be improved in some degree.

The loss of population within the city does not presage a "ghost town" future for East Liverpool. Only the most unimaginative clod, blind to the progress of the past 20 years, could predict that. But the census figures do focus attention on the city's role in the district's future and the need to prepare to fill it with promise and efficiency.

Barring a population increase by annexation some time in the future, it's important that we make the most of what we have.

Be The First In Your Block Etc.

Ford Motor Co. employes have been invited by their employer, with the approval of their bargaining agent, United Auto Workers, to chip in for the two-party political system.

Every Ford worker has been encouraged to put up his own money to help support the part of his choice. The company has furnished the sales talk and envelopes for contributions.

This remarkable inovation is causing comment all over the country. But is it not strange that there should be anything unusual in supporting a system of government that all of us think should be adopted more widely.

It isn't noteworthy if a citizen of this country puts money into an envelope and sends it to a church.

No one thinks it unusual if an American makes a voluntary contribution to organizations that couldn't last a week without income from people who sympathize with their purposes and activities.

Millions of Americans, including members of the United Auto Workers, are obliged to pay dues for the support of various organizations, some of which have the power to compel them to belong as a condition of employment.

Yet the backbone of everything that America stands for — the system of politics that protects the people's sovereignty from abuse —must survive catch-as-catch-can. It is no wonder that the Republican and Democratic parties have had recourse to money from special sources, at the expense of their ability to serve voters impartially.

Without special sources, the parties would be unable to hold their identifites. They could not support equipment and staffs. They would have no funds to help candidates stage campaigns. They could not afford to convey their messages to voters. There could be no two-party system as we have known it.

With wide popular support, on the other hand, there could be a two-party system that would make anything known up to the present seem primitive. The United States could have a government so nearly perfect it would not have to say, "Do as we say, not as we do." Ford Motor Co. may have hit the right note.

If an American kid can be sold something by the lure of being the first in his block, maybe American adults will want to be first in their block to know how it feels to help support the two-party system with money.

That Will Be The Day, Mother

. . . At long last everything that has needed doing will have been done.

All the housecleaning will have been finished. There will be no more loose ends. Everything will be painted and papered.

The mending will be done. Nothing will be left unlaundered. The dry cleaning will have been taken to the cleaners and brought back.

All the part-time chauffering will be up to schedule. No letters will need answering. There will be no overdue wedding presents to buy and send.

Every pair of shoes will be in the proper place. The shoelace supply will be up to snuff. The button box will be full, and no buttons will be missing.

Enough blue jeans, socks, shirts, dresses, coats, hats, gloves and underwear will be on hand to run the establishment for a fortnight.

There will be a fresh cake under the cover, two uncut pies, a fresh-baked ham and enough cold cuts, soda pop, milk and assorted beverages to withstand any contingency.

The windows will be washed and the rugs will be clean. Everything that needs polishing will gleam. There will be no more doorbells to ring, no phone calls to make, no sagging grades to bolster up and no committees with pressing business pending.

The world will be a spreading vista of serenity, punctuated with smiling faces and happy contented souls. Not a brow will be wrinkled with care, not a heart left aching. There will be, in short, no more unfinished business. Mother will have it made.

That will be the day, Mother — the Mother's Day to remember. And mark this well—that if it ever comes somebody will wonder if while you're sitting still you would mind making a costume for a pagent at school tomorrow morning . . . something that looks like a ferocious bear, or possibly a fairy princess.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Once upon a time there was a young man who made it big in music, finance and bobby-sox applause. He was the King-"spin" of disc jockeys and struck gold without a pick or shovel. All he had was a motor that spun recordings and an interest in TV and many affiliated companies. He possessed a look of childlike innocence. His personality was that of a Knight of the Music-Goes-Round Table.

Came a "payola" probe by a Senate group which found evidence indicating the airwaves could one day feature a platter program called "Rin-Tin-Spin." The disc jockey admitted he got $7,000 for inserting a plug for an airline but said it never occurred to him this was going too far. To the probers he seemed to have trouble getting the altitude for ethical ideas.

The lad presented himself so untouched by payola that he could have been chosen for a TV thriller, "The Untouchables of Pop Music."

No matter how the senators huffed and puffed, he looked convincing saying, "My good blade carves the tunes of men, my taste in songs is pure. My income has the strength of ten because my heart is pure."

He had never consciously taken a dime to give a song a better break, he said, and was so strong that if a fellow director came with a record and said breathlessly, "I think we have a killer diller here," he could reply, "There are a lot of tunes ahead of it from companies in which I have no interest whatever. It will have to wait."

The probers tottered dizzily when it was testified that $7,000 plugs for airwave plugs were "widespread" and that some TV bosses knew all about the practice. The bobby-soxers had fun.

Moral: If a Senate committee expects to win a probe into platter programs it should name younger, handsomer and more innocent-looking committee members capable of arousing a demand for autographs.

CURBSIDE PHONE BOOTHS are being installed in New York. Just heard of a fellow who put in a dime and tried to park his car in one.

Maybe when the committee give "Fiorello" the Pulitzer Prize it saw LaGuardia standing over it saying, "Or else!" Gov. Rockefeller has been made a member of the Building Service Workers Union. If there is ever a picket line around Rockefeller Center he is going to be in a tough spot.

Tom Donegan, Ike's new man on the Federal Power Board, says his hobby is fishing. Watch those electric eels and your "light" tackle, Tom!

Jersey Standard Oil has not only named new chairman but five vice presidents. Is the oil business so bad it needs the two platoon system?

Dick Clark, Senate probe revealed, got copyright on song "16 Candles." He may not have burned his candles at both ends but he played them on both sides, apparently.

OTHER COLLEGES have followed Barnard in the fight against Bermuda shorts on gals in classrooms. Most folks are with them in fight to the draw line somewhere on "girls-will-be-boys" (or a reasonabl facsimile thereof) trend. However, the real battle should be against grownup women in shorts. Let's fight mother and grandma who don't seem to realize shorts publicize their bad points and classify them as auditioning for horror films.

One gander at some and you are all for breaking diplomatic relations with Bermuda. Our streets are getting to look like scenes from the Wizard of Oz.

Chinese Spray Glaciers For Water

By Ron G. Whitehead

HONG KONG

Black substances, sprayed from airplanes onto the surfaces of thousands of mountain glaciers in Red China, are expected to trap the sun's heat and thus thaw out billions of tons of extra water badly needed for irrigation in arid areas.

Experiments along these lines began first in 1958 when the production-hungry Red regime laid plans to gradually reclaim most of the vast Gobi Desert as part of its so-called "big leap" policy in agriculture and industry.

In June of that year the Geographical and Geophysical Institutes of the mainland Academy of Sciences, together with various colleges and the Chinghai and Kansu Provincial Water Conservation and Meteorological Departments, sent a joint expedition to explore the glacier region adjoining.

THE SEVEN survey teams involved first tackled the Chilien Mountains. These comprise eight ranges running 500 miles through Kansu and Chinghai Provinces and rising to heights of over 20,000 feet.

These scientists and engineers reported finding about a thousand glaciers in this region alone, mostly in the middle and western sectors.

Ice thickness varied from a few feet up to about 300 feet and they estimated the total water deposit to be in the neighborhood of 40 billion tons.

At present summer surface-melting from these "ice rivers" flows partly into the Tsaidam Basin but more so into the "Hohsi Corridor" —the water thus released feeding into a score of big inland rivers like the Tang and the Shuleh.

In winter these streams dry up almost entirely, but even in summer the flow varies with the hour and according to the heat of the particular day.

Most of the heavy flow develops during July and August and is largely wasted, sinking way into the Central Desert. The time the farmers need the water most is around May. So the aim of Communist China's scientists and engineers is to control both the time and rate of thawing. They want the ice to melt up to a month earlier and to direct the glacier water where it will be most useful.

(For example the Tang River—fed by some 50 square miles of glacier surfaces—feeds a bit more than 30,000 acres of cotton land at Tunhuang. Were there enough water, 80,000 more acres could be cultivated there.

The teams found all glaciers frozen solid in winter time. But in summer the ice melted fast below the snowline and at noon on hot days even well above it—while the heavy summer snows thawed almost as soon as they fell.

THEY CALCULATED that from July through September every five square miles of glacial area produced a ton of water each second.

The chief problem was to accelerate this artificially.

For more than a century peasants of the region in time of serious drought have resorted to "blackening" the surface of the upland ice and snowfields to prevent reflection of the sun's rays and increase heat absorption. A few score men would travel over a hundred miles into the mountains to burn cow dung, withered grass and leaves and scatter the ashes on the glittering glacier surfaces.

When the Chinese Communists tried experimentally with 160 recruits from a local "commune" and covered thus an area of four square miles they found the flow of water was doubled.

Survey scientists themselves later experimented at 15,000 feet on glaciers and snowfalls. They used charcoal and earth — sprayed on in the form of fine dust and found that one square mile of "blackened" glacier freed an extra 20,000 tons of water every 24 hours.

They also noted that the "blackening" worked when the air temperature was not under 5 degrees C below zero, or the ice temperature not under 8 degrees C below zero.

From which they figured it is quite possible to cause an earlier thaw by this means. Last year, besides "blackening," the use of explosives to shatter the ice was tried out. (Aircraft could achieve this also by dropping bombs.)

Peasants working with the scientists near Tunhuang thus succeeded in obtaining 13 tons of water — all from surface melting, Communist reports claim.

But there are still many difficulties in the way before large-scale operations commence: transport of the "blackening" substances over tough icy terrain — (and it needs dozens of tons to cover one square mile) — technical "bugs" in spraying the surfaces by plane, sometimes the steady summer snowfalls cover up the darkened layer prematurely and lastly serious leaks may occur under the glaciers themselves.

Unnecessary Competition

By Raymond Moley

The eternal laws of bureaucracy say that once a tax is levied, it is almost never repealed; once an incompetent is frozen into civil service, he is safe from all storms and once the government gets its teeth into a business, it never lets go.

The Budget Bureau commissioned an engineering firm to look into the operation of a shipping line maintained by the Panama Canal Co., which is a government-owned-and-operated affair under the Department of Defense.

The chairman of the board of the shipping line is an assistant secretary of the Army, its president is a major general of the Army and the sole stockholder is the Secretary of the Army.

The advice to the Bureau of the Budget by its engineering consultant was that the line be discontinued.

And now the comptroller general of the United States reports that, in an effort to refute the evil belief that anything the Army does should not necessarily go on in perpetuity, the Panama Canal Co. has hired two engineering firms to refute the findings of the Budget Bureau.

THE PANAMA LINE, whose service is 70 per cent commercial, is in direct competition with American private shipping companies which could provide the services with greater efficiency.

It has two combination freight and passenger vessels, the Ancon and Cristobal. Both are 20 years old. While the Merchant Marine Act requires that ships of private companies be replaced in 20 years, the Panama Canal Co., claiming that it is not bound by any such nonsense, proposes to keep these ships and spend five million dollars of taxpayers' money to recondition them for service for another 10 years.

According to Maj. Gen. W. E. Potter, the head of the Panama Line, the ships "look a bit seedy."

The furniture needs reupholstering, the swimming pools must be renovated, the clubrooms airconditioned, and the dishwashers replaced. The boiler systems, turbines, and generators need repairs and the electrical cables should be replaced.

Although they are still deemed seaworthy, this would seem like the prescription for scrapping. For with old ships, like old houses, rebuilding makes them look almost like new and costs only a little more.

The argument of the Panama Canal Co. is that the strategic Canal Zone needs its own supply facilities. But this is strange, since no other bastion of our defense, no matter how far-flung, enjoys its own shipping service.

There is an abundance of privately owned transport service on regularly scheduled runs between New York and the Canal Zone, the route of the government's line. Private capacity is ten times the requirements of the Panama Canal Co.

The Grace Line and the United Fruit Company, which have petitioned for discontinuance of the Panama Line, in 1958 alone paid $2,600,000 in Canal tolls. Thus they are paying for the deficits and refitting of their competitor.

THE OPERATION of such ships by the Army's agency is in direct contradiction to a 1953 directive of the Department of Defense:

"It is the policy of the Department of Defense not to engage in the operation of industrial or commercial facilities unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary for the government itself to perform the required work or service."

The Hoover Commission reported in 1955 that, "there does not seem to be any compelling reason justifying the continued operation of the steamship line."

Thus, we have buried in the vast appropriations for defense a considerable amount devoted to a wholly unnecessary purpose. And this continues, despite the recommendation of the Hoover Commission, the explicitly stated policy of the Budget Bureau, and federal law itself.

Perhaps, since the Army built the Canal more than half a century ago, the Panama Canal Co. is regarded as a sort of sacred cow. But with taxes what they are and requirements for necessities so high, there should be no room for the stabling of any sacred cows.

Letter To Editor

I feel that something definitely has to be done about out of - town siding concerns swarming Wellsville and the tri-state area with high - pressure salesmen who harass home owners into signing contracts. Many times they park on their doorsteps until they are subdued into buying.

One salesman promised a lady he would finish her housecleaning and pay her for the cleaning she had already done if she would sign his contract. We must stop these intruders from deceiving the people and robbing our local businesses of work they should be getting.

Give our local businessmen who are in the siding business a chance to prove they can save the home owners thousands of dollars a year by giving the best service and workmanship for the least money. Let's all get together and keep them out. Now!

Booby-Trapped

By James Marlow

Khrushchev Is Holding The Cards

WASHINGTON

It was just the beginning when the Soviet Union, with the world watching, booby-trapped the United States on the American spy plane it said was shot down over the Soviet Union.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev—if he wishes—has prepared the way for embarrassing this government and President Eisenhower before, during and after the summit meeting which opens in Paris next Monday.

Without condemning Eisenhower at all, Khrushchev has already projected an image of himself as a leader much more alert to what's happening than the President.

He let it be known he was the one who gave the order to shoot down the plane while it was over his territory. Up to this moment the American government has insisted Eisenhower didn't know about the plane or its mission.

Since Khrushchev is shrewd, a fine actor and a superb propagandist, he could easily pull a switch that would present him to the watching world as a man of vast good will.

He could do it by ordering the release of the captured American flier—30-year-old Francis G. Powers—just before the summit conference begins.

The American government walked into Khrushchev's trap with about as much sophistication as a 10 - year - old who lost his mama.

It was clear Khrushchev wasn't telling the whole story Thursday when he announced an American jet was shot down while traveling over the Soviet Union. For instance: He didn't reveal the fate of the pilot.

There was a chance he didn't know any more than he said. But he left so much unsaid, it could be suspected he knew much more than he revealed. In view of this uncertainty, the United States could have played smarter.

It could have clammed up, asked Khrushchev for details, and waited. Instead, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration came up with a theory that maybe the pilot had suffered loss of oxygen, became unconscious, and the plane, unguided, flew on over Soviet Union territory by itself.

The State Department, through press officer Lincoln White, joined in that theory and added there never was any "attempt to deliberately violate Soviet air space."

Then Khrushchev pulled the string, announced pilot Powers had been captured and admitted he was spying.

White, who is only a spokesman for the State Department, had to come out with another statement, this one approved by Eisenhower, which conceded Powers might have been spying but denying he had been authorized to do so.

Khrushchev talked vaguely of trying Powers as a spy. But if he released him just before the summit meeting, he'd be putting the United States on the spot.

In 1957 this government tried and convicted a Soviet spy, Col. Rudolf I. Abel. Last March the Supreme Court upheld the conviction. If Khrushchev let Powers go, this country might feel compelled to let Abel go. Or the two countries might agree on the exchange.

At the summit with Eisenhower and Khrushchev will be French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The three Allied powers have agreed pretty much on a stand-pat performance when they meet the Soviet Premier. None has been optimistic about great doings at the summit. Last week Khrushchev blamed the West for pre-summit gloom.

If the Allies make no concessions to him, he has, by his blast at them, prepared the world for what would seem to be first move after the summit: Blaming them for its failure, if it is a failure.

A Look At The Census Figures

Any loss in population is a blow to civic pride, regardless of the circumstances behind it.

The blow was there when census figures revealed East Liverpool's total had dropped by 2,059 in the last 10 years.

This marks the first reversal in population expansion here since establishment of the pottery industry spurred the growth of the community well over a century ago.

The decline in the number of city residents conceivably could have an effect on community prestige, in addition to altering certain incomes dependent upon per capita figures and other aspects of government and business.

Actually, however, the reduction in population represents no great loss of residents. It reflects instead the national trend of movement to the suburbs. The city's population has not dwindled so much as it has spread outward, without being accompanied by legal boundaries.

This shifting has been under way for years, given incentive by increased use of the automobile and the demands for newer and larger homes in the face of restricted space for residential development in our hill-bounded community.

Reduction of dinnerware activity in East Liverpool undoubtedly contributed to a degree to the population pattern, but at the same time expansion of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. and other area industries has provided new attractions for job hunters.

The census figures should not be regarded as an omen of decline. They do, however, carry a clearcut warning as to the need for positive action toward planning for an improved East Liverpool.

Lack of zoning and community planning in the past have helped create conditions from which some residents have moved away in the last decade or so.

We have certain areas that are run down and unattractive, but which could be developed as municipal assets. We have traffic problems that call for continued attention in the hope that our fullest potential as a marketing center can be developed.

We have progressive schools, capable municipal services, growing recreation facilities, cultural and entertainment offerings and many other attributes, none of which, however, could not be improved in some degree.

The loss of population within the city does not presage a "ghost town" future for East Liverpool. Only the most unimaginative clod, blind to the progress of the past 20 years, could predict that. But the census figures do focus attention on the city's role in the district's future and the need to prepare to fill it with promise and efficiency.

Barring a population increase by annexation some time in the future, it's important that we make the most of what we have.

Be The First In Your Block Etc.

Ford Motor Co. employes have been invited by their employer, with the approval of their bargaining agent, United Auto Workers, to chip in for the two-party political system.

Every Ford worker has been encouraged to put up his own money to help support the part of his choice. The company has furnished the sales talk and envelopes for contributions.

This remarkable inovation is causing comment all over the country. But is it not strange that there should be anything unusual in supporting a system of government that all of us think should be adopted more widely.

It isn't noteworthy if a citizen of this country puts money into an envelope and sends it to a church.

No one thinks it unusual if an American makes a voluntary contribution to organizations that couldn't last a week without income from people who sympathize with their purposes and activities.

Millions of Americans, including members of the United Auto Workers, are obliged to pay dues for the support of various organizations, some of which have the power to compel them to belong as a condition of employment.

Yet the backbone of everything that America stands for — the system of politics that protects the people's sovereignty from abuse —must survive catch-as-catch-can. It is no wonder that the Republican and Democratic parties have had recourse to money from special sources, at the expense of their ability to serve voters impartially.

Without special sources, the parties would be unable to hold their identifites. They could not support equipment and staffs. They would have no funds to help candidates stage campaigns. They could not afford to convey their messages to voters. There could be no two-party system as we have known it.

With wide popular support, on the other hand, there could be a two-party system that would make anything known up to the present seem primitive. The United States could have a government so nearly perfect it would not have to say, "Do as we say, not as we do." Ford Motor Co. may have hit the right note.

If an American kid can be sold something by the lure of being the first in his block, maybe American adults will want to be first in their block to know how it feels to help support the two-party system with money.

That Will Be The Day, Mother

. . . At long last everything that has needed doing will have been done.

All the housecleaning will have been finished. There will be no more loose ends. Everything will be painted and papered.

The mending will be done. Nothing will be left unlaundered. The dry cleaning will have been taken to the cleaners and brought back.

All the part-time chauffering will be up to schedule. No letters will need answering. There will be no overdue wedding presents to buy and send.

Every pair of shoes will be in the proper place. The shoelace supply will be up to snuff. The button box will be full, and no buttons will be missing.

Enough blue jeans, socks, shirts, dresses, coats, hats, gloves and underwear will be on hand to run the establishment for a fortnight.

There will be a fresh cake under the cover, two uncut pies, a fresh-baked ham and enough cold cuts, soda pop, milk and assorted beverages to withstand any contingency.

The windows will be washed and the rugs will be clean. Everything that needs polishing will gleam. There will be no more doorbells to ring, no phone calls to make, no sagging grades to bolster up and no committees with pressing business pending.

The world will be a spreading vista of serenity, punctuated with smiling faces and happy contented souls. Not a brow will be wrinkled with care, not a heart left aching. There will be, in short, no more unfinished business. Mother will have it made.

That will be the day, Mother — the Mother's Day to remember. And mark this well—that if it ever comes somebody will wonder if while you're sitting still you would mind making a costume for a pagent at school tomorrow morning . . . something that looks like a ferocious bear, or possibly a fairy princess.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Once upon a time there was a young man who made it big in music, finance and bobby-sox applause. He was the King-"spin" of disc jockeys and struck gold without a pick or shovel. All he had was a motor that spun recordings and an interest in TV and many affiliated companies. He possessed a look of childlike innocence. His personality was that of a Knight of the Music-Goes-Round Table.

Came a "payola" probe by a Senate group which found evidence indicating the airwaves could one day feature a platter program called "Rin-Tin-Spin." The disc jockey admitted he got $7,000 for inserting a plug for an airline but said it never occurred to him this was going too far. To the probers he seemed to have trouble getting the altitude for ethical ideas.

The lad presented himself so untouched by payola that he could have been chosen for a TV thriller, "The Untouchables of Pop Music."

No matter how the senators huffed and puffed, he looked convincing saying, "My good blade carves the tunes of men, my taste in songs is pure. My income has the strength of ten because my heart is pure."

He had never consciously taken a dime to give a song a better break, he said, and was so strong that if a fellow director came with a record and said breathlessly, "I think we have a killer diller here," he could reply, "There are a lot of tunes ahead of it from companies in which I have no interest whatever. It will have to wait."

The probers tottered dizzily when it was testified that $7,000 plugs for airwave plugs were "widespread" and that some TV bosses knew all about the practice. The bobby-soxers had fun.

Moral: If a Senate committee expects to win a probe into platter programs it should name younger, handsomer and more innocent-looking committee members capable of arousing a demand for autographs.

CURBSIDE PHONE BOOTHS are being installed in New York. Just heard of a fellow who put in a dime and tried to park his car in one.

Maybe when the committee give "Fiorello" the Pulitzer Prize it saw LaGuardia standing over it saying, "Or else!" Gov. Rockefeller has been made a member of the Building Service Workers Union. If there is ever a picket line around Rockefeller Center he is going to be in a tough spot.

Tom Donegan, Ike's new man on the Federal Power Board, says his hobby is fishing. Watch those electric eels and your "light" tackle, Tom!

Jersey Standard Oil has not only named new chairman but five vice presidents. Is the oil business so bad it needs the two platoon system?

Dick Clark, Senate probe revealed, got copyright on song "16 Candles." He may not have burned his candles at both ends but he played them on both sides, apparently.

OTHER COLLEGES have followed Barnard in the fight against Bermuda shorts on gals in classrooms. Most folks are with them in fight to the draw line somewhere on "girls-will-be-boys" (or a reasonabl facsimile thereof) trend. However, the real battle should be against grownup women in shorts. Let's fight mother and grandma who don't seem to realize shorts publicize their bad points and classify them as auditioning for horror films.

One gander at some and you are all for breaking diplomatic relations with Bermuda. Our streets are getting to look like scenes from the Wizard of Oz.

Chinese Spray Glaciers For Water

By Ron G. Whitehead

HONG KONG

Black substances, sprayed from airplanes onto the surfaces of thousands of mountain glaciers in Red China, are expected to trap the sun's heat and thus thaw out billions of tons of extra water badly needed for irrigation in arid areas.

Experiments along these lines began first in 1958 when the production-hungry Red regime laid plans to gradually reclaim most of the vast Gobi Desert as part of its so-called "big leap" policy in agriculture and industry.

In June of that year the Geographical and Geophysical Institutes of the mainland Academy of Sciences, together with various colleges and the Chinghai and Kansu Provincial Water Conservation and Meteorological Departments, sent a joint expedition to explore the glacier region adjoining.

THE SEVEN survey teams involved first tackled the Chilien Mountains. These comprise eight ranges running 500 miles through Kansu and Chinghai Provinces and rising to heights of over 20,000 feet.

These scientists and engineers reported finding about a thousand glaciers in this region alone, mostly in the middle and western sectors.

Ice thickness varied from a few feet up to about 300 feet and they estimated the total water deposit to be in the neighborhood of 40 billion tons.

At present summer surface-melting from these "ice rivers" flows partly into the Tsaidam Basin but more so into the "Hohsi Corridor" —the water thus released feeding into a score of big inland rivers like the Tang and the Shuleh.

In winter these streams dry up almost entirely, but even in summer the flow varies with the hour and according to the heat of the particular day.

Most of the heavy flow develops during July and August and is largely wasted, sinking way into the Central Desert. The time the farmers need the water most is around May. So the aim of Communist China's scientists and engineers is to control both the time and rate of thawing. They want the ice to melt up to a month earlier and to direct the glacier water where it will be most useful.

(For example the Tang River—fed by some 50 square miles of glacier surfaces—feeds a bit more than 30,000 acres of cotton land at Tunhuang. Were there enough water, 80,000 more acres could be cultivated there.

The teams found all glaciers frozen solid in winter time. But in summer the ice melted fast below the snowline and at noon on hot days even well above it—while the heavy summer snows thawed almost as soon as they fell.

THEY CALCULATED that from July through September every five square miles of glacial area produced a ton of water each second.

The chief problem was to accelerate this artificially.

For more than a century peasants of the region in time of serious drought have resorted to "blackening" the surface of the upland ice and snowfields to prevent reflection of the sun's rays and increase heat absorption. A few score men would travel over a hundred miles into the mountains to burn cow dung, withered grass and leaves and scatter the ashes on the glittering glacier surfaces.

When the Chinese Communists tried experimentally with 160 recruits from a local "commune" and covered thus an area of four square miles they found the flow of water was doubled.

Survey scientists themselves later experimented at 15,000 feet on glaciers and snowfalls. They used charcoal and earth — sprayed on in the form of fine dust and found that one square mile of "blackened" glacier freed an extra 20,000 tons of water every 24 hours.

They also noted that the "blackening" worked when the air temperature was not under 5 degrees C below zero, or the ice temperature not under 8 degrees C below zero.

From which they figured it is quite possible to cause an earlier thaw by this means. Last year, besides "blackening," the use of explosives to shatter the ice was tried out. (Aircraft could achieve this also by dropping bombs.)

Peasants working with the scientists near Tunhuang thus succeeded in obtaining 13 tons of water — all from surface melting, Communist reports claim.

But there are still many difficulties in the way before large-scale operations commence: transport of the "blackening" substances over tough icy terrain — (and it needs dozens of tons to cover one square mile) — technical "bugs" in spraying the surfaces by plane, sometimes the steady summer snowfalls cover up the darkened layer prematurely and lastly serious leaks may occur under the glaciers themselves.

Unnecessary Competition

By Raymond Moley

The eternal laws of bureaucracy say that once a tax is levied, it is almost never repealed; once an incompetent is frozen into civil service, he is safe from all storms and once the government gets its teeth into a business, it never lets go.

The Budget Bureau commissioned an engineering firm to look into the operation of a shipping line maintained by the Panama Canal Co., which is a government-owned-and-operated affair under the Department of Defense.

The chairman of the board of the shipping line is an assistant secretary of the Army, its president is a major general of the Army and the sole stockholder is the Secretary of the Army.

The advice to the Bureau of the Budget by its engineering consultant was that the line be discontinued.

And now the comptroller general of the United States reports that, in an effort to refute the evil belief that anything the Army does should not necessarily go on in perpetuity, the Panama Canal Co. has hired two engineering firms to refute the findings of the Budget Bureau.

THE PANAMA LINE, whose service is 70 per cent commercial, is in direct competition with American private shipping companies which could provide the services with greater efficiency.

It has two combination freight and passenger vessels, the Ancon and Cristobal. Both are 20 years old. While the Merchant Marine Act requires that ships of private companies be replaced in 20 years, the Panama Canal Co., claiming that it is not bound by any such nonsense, proposes to keep these ships and spend five million dollars of taxpayers' money to recondition them for service for another 10 years.

According to Maj. Gen. W. E. Potter, the head of the Panama Line, the ships "look a bit seedy."

The furniture needs reupholstering, the swimming pools must be renovated, the clubrooms airconditioned, and the dishwashers replaced. The boiler systems, turbines, and generators need repairs and the electrical cables should be replaced.

Although they are still deemed seaworthy, this would seem like the prescription for scrapping. For with old ships, like old houses, rebuilding makes them look almost like new and costs only a little more.

The argument of the Panama Canal Co. is that the strategic Canal Zone needs its own supply facilities. But this is strange, since no other bastion of our defense, no matter how far-flung, enjoys its own shipping service.

There is an abundance of privately owned transport service on regularly scheduled runs between New York and the Canal Zone, the route of the government's line. Private capacity is ten times the requirements of the Panama Canal Co.

The Grace Line and the United Fruit Company, which have petitioned for discontinuance of the Panama Line, in 1958 alone paid $2,600,000 in Canal tolls. Thus they are paying for the deficits and refitting of their competitor.

THE OPERATION of such ships by the Army's agency is in direct contradiction to a 1953 directive of the Department of Defense:

"It is the policy of the Department of Defense not to engage in the operation of industrial or commercial facilities unless it can be demonstrated that it is necessary for the government itself to perform the required work or service."

The Hoover Commission reported in 1955 that, "there does not seem to be any compelling reason justifying the continued operation of the steamship line."

Thus, we have buried in the vast appropriations for defense a considerable amount devoted to a whooly unnecessary purpose. And this continues, despite the recommendation of the Hoover Commission, the explicitly stated policy of the Budget Bureau, and federal law itself.

Perhaps, since the Army built the Canal more than half a century ago, the Panama Canal Co. is regarded as a sort of sacred cow. But with taxes what they are and requirements for necessities so high, there should be no room for the stabling of any sacred cows.

Letter To Editor

I feel that something definitely has to be done about out of - town siding concerns swarming Wellsville and the tri-state area with high - pressure salesmen who harass home owners into signing contracts. Many times they park on their doorsteps until they are subdued into buying.

One salesman promised a lady he would finish her housecleaning and pay her for the cleaning she had already done if she would sign his contract. We must stop these intruders from deceiving the people and robbing our local businesses of work they should be getting.

Give our local businessmen who are in the siding business a chance to prove they can save the home owners thousands of dollars a year by giving the best service and workmanship for the least money. Let's all get together and keep them out. Now!

Booby-Trapped

By James Marlow

Khrushchev Is Holding The Cards

WASHINGTON

It was just the beginning when the Soviet Union, with the world watching, booby-trapped the United States on the American spy plane it said was shot down over the Soviet Union.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev—if he wishes—has prepared the way for embarrassing this government and President Eisenhower before, during and after the summit meeting which opens in Paris next Monday.

Without condemning Eisenhower at all, Khrushchev has already projected an image of himself as a leader much more alert to what's happening than the President.

He let it be known he was the one who gave the order to shoot down the plane while it was over his territory. Up to this moment the American government has insisted Eisenhower didn't know about the plane or its mission.

Since Khrushchev is shrewd, a fine actor and a superb propagandist, he could easily pull a switch that would present him to the watching world as a man of vast good will.

He could do it by ordering the release of the captured American flier—30-year-old Francis G. Powers—just before the summit conference begins.

The American government walked into Khrushchev's trap with about as much sophistication as a 10-year-old who lost his mama.

It was clear Khrushchev wasn't telling the whole story Thursday when he announced an American jet was shot down while traveling over the Soviet Union. For instance: He didn't reveal the fate of the pilot.

There was a chance he didn't know any more than he said. But he left so much unsaid, it could be suspected he knew much more than he revealed. In view of this uncertainty, the United States could have played smarter.

It could have clammed up, asked Khrushchev for details, and waited. Instead, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration came up with a theory that maybe the pilot had suffered loss of oxygen, became unconscious, and the plane, unguided, flew on over Soviet Union territory by itself.

The State Department, through press officer Lincoln White, joined in that theory and added there never was any "attempt to deliberately violate Soviet air space."

Then Khrushchev pulled the string, announced pilot Powers had been captured and admitted he was spying.

White, who is only a spokesman for the State Department, had to come out with another statement, this one approved by Eisenhower, which conceded Powers might have been spying but denying he had been authorized to do so.

Khrushchev talked vaguely of trying Powers as a spy. But if he released him just before the summit meeting, he'd be putting the United States on the spot.

In 1957 this government tried and convicted a Soviet spy, Col. Rudolf I. Abel. Last March the Supreme Court upheld the conviction. If Khrushchev let Powers go, this country might feel compelled to let Abel go. Or the two countries might agree on the exchange.

At the summit with Eisenhower and Khrushchev will be French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The three Allied powers have agreed pretty much on a standpat performance when they meet the Soviet Premier. None has been optimistic about great doings at the summit. Last week Khrushchev blamed the West for pre-summit gloom.

If the Allies make no concessions to him, he has, by his blast at them, prepared the world for what would seem to be first move after the summit: Blaming them for its failure, if it is a failure.

Khrushchev has been kind to Eisenhower on the plane incident. He hasn't condemned him at all. But if he condemns the West for a summit failure, he will have to include Eisenhower.

Shippingport A-Plant Goes Into Full Use

The atomic energy power plant in Shippingport — closed since November for uranium refueling —resumed full operations Saturday.

Power from the nation's first peace - time atomic plant was started into the lines of the Duquesne Light & Heat Co. Friday at 2:55 a. m.

The generators produced 41,000 kilowatts yesterday and were stepped up to supply the 60,000 kilowatt maxium today.

During the refueling, 32 enriched uraium fuel assemblies were replaced in the reactor.

The plant in the first two years of operation generated over 388 million kilowatt hours of electricity for Pittsburgh district homes and plants.

The original fuel assemblies in the reactor, enriched uranium, were expected to last over 3,000 hours at full power but they actually operated at the equilivant of full power for over 5,800 hours.

Herbert Briggs Jr., manager of advertising and public relations, said this was "almost double expectations."

45 Attend Turkey Dinner

Former Chester Firemen Honored

Honorary members of the Chester fire department and former members were feted at a turkey dinner attended by 45 Saturday night at the fire station.

Harold Dickey, toastmaster, introduced the former fire chiefs, along with the former secretaries A. C. Blair, George Swearingen, Harry Davis and Lester Wehner. Arch Hall gave the invocation and Glover welcomed the group.

Hobbs gave an account of the early history of the department, founded in 1914, and related a number of the major fires fought, including the Old Mill fire at Rock Springs Park.

Blair spoke on the history of the unit, telling how money was raised by minstrels and street fairs. He paid tribute to the late E. V. Wehner, one-time fire chief.

Harold Allison of Newell, a former member, told of a fire bug who set a number of blazes in 1929, but who never was caught. Gibbs and Lester Kirschler related the activities of a drum and bugle corps sponsored by the firemen in the 1930's.

Cline spoke on the firemen's purchase of ground for the City Park and its development.

Remarks were given by Davis, Roy Gibbs, Swearingen and Kenneth Hobbs of Bellvue, Pa., a former member, and John Allison of Beaver Falls, along with Sanford Graham, newest member.

Dickey commended the unit for its service to the community for the past 46 years. Dickey, Earl Fenton of the East Liverpool fire department and DeMar Miller were guests.

T. S. Campbell, 94, first fire captain, was present.

Legal Squabble Takes Place In Bar Association Election

CLEVELAND (AP) — John C. Johnston Jr. of Wooster has been elected to a top office in the Ohio Bar Assn. despite a court action which sought to block the election Saturday.

Johnston becomes vice president and will move up to the presidency in 1961.

The action was brought by Cleveland attorney Otto Miller III, who said he was refused a ballot. He had dropped in at the bar convention looking for another lawyer and while he was there a friend asked him to vote.

But Miller said he was refused a ballot because he had not paid a $5 registration.

The Cleveland lawyer hurriedly filed an action, charging that his rights had been violated under the association's constitution. There was no provision, he said, requiring a fee to take part in elections.

Common Pleas Judge Saul S. Danaceau held an emergency court session and said the election could proceed, provided Miller's ballot was cast and sealed in an envelope pending subsequent court action.

Other candidates for the vice presidency were Lawrence Burns Jr. of Coshocton and Jack F. Pickrel of Dayton.

Miller, whose vote apparently will not affect the outcome, was satisfied with the results, declaring that all the candidates were fine men. However, he is going through with his court action—as a matter of principle.

The case was to be heard today.

The world's record for writing shorthand, according to the National Shorthand Reporters Association, was established in 1927, when Martin J. Dupraw took shorthand at an average speed of 246 words per minute.

Salem Man Sentenced In Bank Embezzlement

Alton C. Fields, 36, of Salem, was sentenced to 15 months in prison Friday by Federal Judge Charles J. McNamee at Cleveland on a charge of embezzling $33,000 from the Farmers National Bank of Salem.

He pleaded innocent originally, but last month changed his plea to guilty.

The embezzlement was discovered last February at the bank, where Fields had been employed since 1946, the last three years as an assistant cashier.

The government charged that Fields withheld payments which customers made on Federal Housing Administration loans. He is married and has four children.

Scout Official Is Club Guest

"Men with vision to work with boys still are needed in the scouting movement," Bennett L. Taylor, Columbiana Boy Scout Council executive, told the Lions Club Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Taylor pointed out the characteristics of boys in his humorous talk.

The traits include "a gang urge; they are joiners and badge wearers," he said. They have an urge to express themselves, like to try out their muscles, love competition, are hero worshippers, want to touch, want to see what makes things work, are collectors, like to get outdoors for adventure as a form of escapism, and have a sense of rhythm.

"They also have a sense of achievement; they want recognition for what they have done," Taylor said, explaining that is the reason there are so many various awards in scouting.

Taylor was introduced by Fred Yonz, program chairman.

Bob Gray, field executive in the Cherokee District, was a guest.

Charles Herman, co-chairman of the club's annual broom sale termed it "very successful."

George McCullough, zone chairman, reminded the club it should elect a delegate to the state convention in Cincinnati.

Nominations from the floor for new officers will be made at Friday's meeting and the election will be held May 20, Victor C. Smith president, announced. There will be no speakers at either meeting.

245 Stray Dogs Taken By Warden In April

LISBON — County Dog Warden Russell Reichenbach said his department picked up 245 dogs in April and only 2 were redeemed. Ten had to be destroyed.

He warned that any dog over 3 months of age must have a license or the owner will be fined. The warden's office sold 15,681 licenses this year, compared to 16,700 in 1959.

Dogs killed seven sheep and an undetermined number of chickens, he said. Several dog bites cases were referred to local health departments, Reichenbach said.

1,000 Autos Checked In Drive At Wellsville

A total of 1,000 cars were checked for safety during inspections held Wednesday through Friday by Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police and FOP Associates Lodges, Capt. Pete Trainer reported today.

The check lane was set up in front of City Hall on Main St. Trainer said 189 vehicles failed the inspection because of various defects. About 70 per cent of the motorists had the faults corrected and returned to have their cars approved, he said.

Each car that passed was given a safety sticker for the windshield.

Polio Shot Program Opens In City Schools

A Health Department program to administer third polio shots got underway this morning as scheduled for children in the public and parochial schools.

The shots also will be administered Tuesday to wind up the program.

Children absent today and tomorrow should report at City Hall for their third shot Wednesday morning at 9, Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, city health commissioner, said.

The first death sentence passed by a federal court in the United States was imposed in New Bern, North Carolina, in 1793, when four sailors were hanged for mutiny.

Candidates Presented To Grant's Democrats

Twelve candidates in Tuesday's primary in the Northern Panhandle were introduced when the Grant District Democrat Club met Sunday afternoon in the Graham Building on Louisiana Ave. in Chester.

It was announced that Chester area residents wishing transportation to the polls tomorrow may call the club headquarters, EVergreen 7-2100.

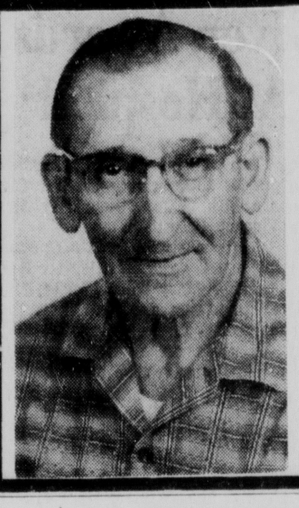

Miss Donna Marie Wright presented the treasurer's report. Alonzo Brown Jr., vice president, presided. State Sen. Arch Riley of Wheeling introducted candidates.

Date for the next meeting will be announced. Arnie Durham is president.

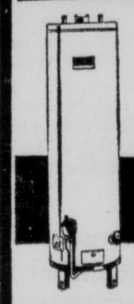

Don Delong headed the lunch committee. He was assisted by Mike Orenzuk, Mrs. Ivie Johnson and Mrs. Jean Graham.

45 Attend Turkey Dinner

Former Chester Firemen Honored

Honorary members of the Chester fire department and former members were feted at a turkey dinner attended by 45 Saturday night at the fire station.

Harold Dickey, toastmaster, introduced the former fire chiefs, along with the former secretaries A. C. Blair, George Swearingen, Harry Davis and Lester Wehner. Arch Hall gave the invocation and Glover welcomed the group.

Hobbs gave an account of the early history of the department, founded in 1914, and related a number of the major fires fought, including the Old Mill fire at Rock Springs Park.

Blair spoke on the history of the unit, telling how money was raised by minstrels and street fairs. He paid tribute to the late E. V. Wehner, one-time fire chief.

Harold Allison of Newell, a former member, told of a fire bug who set a number of blazes in 1929, but who never was caught. Gibbs and Lester Kirschler related the activities of a drum and bugle corps sponsored by the firemen in the 1930's.

Cline spoke on the firemen's purchase of ground for the City Park and its development.

Remarks were given by Davis, Roy Gibbs, Swearingen and Kenneth Hobbs of Bellvue, Pa., a former member, and John Allison of Beaver Falls, along with Sanford Graham, newest member.

Dickey commended the unit for its service to the community for the past 46 years. Dickey, Earl Fenton of the East Liverpool fire department and DeMar Miller were guests.

T. S. Campbell, 94, first fire captain, was present.

Scout Official Is Club Guest

"Men with vision to work with boys still are needed in the scouting movement," Bennett L. Taylor, Columbiana Boy Scout Council executive, told the Lions Club Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Taylor pointed out the characteristics of boys in his humorous talk.

The traits include "a gang urge; they are joiners and badge wearers," he said. They have an urge to express themselves, like to try out their muscles, love competition, are hero worshippers, want to touch, want to see what makes things work, are collectors, like to get outdoors for adventure as a form of escapism, and have a sense of rhythm.

"They also have a sense of achievement; they want recognition for what they have done," Taylor said, explaining that is the reason there are so many various awards in scouting.

Taylor was introduced by Fred Yonz, program chairman.

Bob Gray, field executive in the Cherokee District, was a guest.

Charles Herman, co-chairman of the club's annual broom sale termed it "very successful."

George McCullough, zone chairman, reminded the club it should elect a delegate to the state convention in Cincinnati.

Nominations from the floor for new officers will be made at Friday's meeting and the election will be held May 20, Victor C. Smith president, announced. There will be no speakers at either meeting.

Candidates Presented To Grant's Democrats

Twelve candidates in Tuesday's primary in the Northern Panhandle were introduced when the Grant District Democrat Club met Sunday afternoon in the Graham Building on Louisiana Ave. in Chester.

It was announced that Chester area residents wishing transportation to the polls tomorrow may call the club headquarters, EVergreen 7-2100.

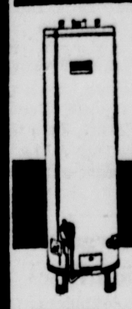

Miss Donna Marie Wright presented the treasurer's report. Alonzo Brown Jr., vice president, presided. State Sen. Arch Riley of Wheeling introducted candidates.

Date for the next meeting will be announced. Arnie Durham is president.

Vets Dinner Slated

EAST PALESTINE — World War I veterans will be honored at a special dinner of American Legion Post 31 Thursday night at 6:30 at the post home. The event will be sponsored by World War II veterans of the post. Atty. J. E. Baukenecht will be speaker.

Legal Squabble Takes Place In Bar Association Election

CLEVELAND (AP) — John C. Johnston Jr. of Wooster has been elected to a top office in the Ohio Bar Assn. despite a court action which sought to block the election Saturday.

Johnston becomes vice president and will move up to the presidency in 1961.

The action was brought by Cleveland attorney Otto Miller III, who said he was refused a ballot. He had dropped in at the bar convention looking for another lawyer and while he was there a friend asked him to vote.

But Miller said he was refused a ballot because he had not paid a $5 registration.

The Cleveland lawyer hurriedly filed an action, charging that his rights had been violated under the association's constitution. There was no provision, he said, requiring a fee to take part in elections.

Common Pleas Judge Saul S. Danaceau held an emergency court session and said the election could proceed, provided Miller's ballot was cast and sealed in an envelope pending subsequent court action.

Other candidates for the vice presidency were Lawrence Burns Jr. of Coshocton and Jack F. Pickrel of Dayton.

Miller, whose vote apparently will not affect the outcome, was satisfied with the results, declaring that all the candidates were fine men. However, he is going through with his court action—as a matter of principle.

The case was to be heard today.

The world's record for writing shorthand, according to the National Shorthand Reporters Association, was established in 1927, when Martin J. Dupraw took shorthand at an average speed of 246 words per minute.

Salem Man Sentenced In Bank Embezzlement

Alton C. Fields, 36, of Salem, was sentenced to 15 months in prison Friday by Federal Judge Charles J. McNamee at Cleveland on a charge of embezzling $33,000 from the Farmers National Bank of Salem.

He pleaded innocent originally, but last month changed his plea to guilty.

The embezzlement was discovered last February at the bank, where Fields had been employed since 1946, the last three years as an assistant cashier.

The government charged that Fields withheld payments which customers made on Federal Housing Administration loans. He is married and has four children.

245 Stray Dogs Taken By Warden In April

LISBON — County Dog Warden Russell Reichenbach said his department picked up 245 dogs in April and only 2 were redeemed. Ten had to be destroyed.

He warned that any dog over 3 months of age must have a license or the owner will be fined. The warden's office sold 15,681 licenses this year, compared to 16,700 in 1959.

Dogs killed seven sheep and an undetermined number of chickens, he said. Several dog bites cases were referred to local health departments, Reichenbach said.

1,000 Autos Checked In Drive At Wellsville

A total of 1,000 cars were checked for safety during inspections held Wednesday through Friday by Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police and FOP Associates Lodges, Capt. Pete Trainer reported today.

The check lane was set up in front of City Hall on Main St. Trainer said 189 vehicles failed the inspection because of various defects. About 70 per cent of the motorists had the faults corrected and returned to have their cars approved, he said.

Each car that passed was given a safety sticker for the windshield.

Polio Shot Program Opens In City Schools

A Health Department program to administer third polio shots got underway this morning as scheduled for children in the public and parochial schools.

The shots also will be administered Tuesday to wind up the program.

Children absent today and tomorrow should report at City Hall for their third shot Wednesday morning at 9, Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, city health commissioner, said.

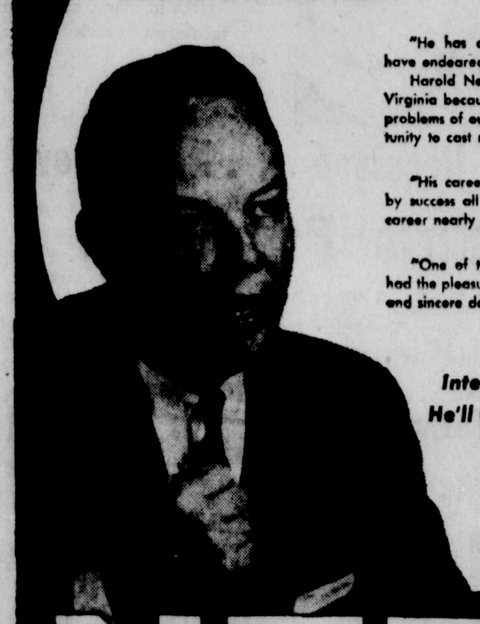

The first death sentence passed by a federal court in the United States was imposed in New Bern, North Carolina, in 1793, when four sailors were hanged for mutiny.

Sheriff Races To Mark Vote For Hancock

prosecutor, is the lone Republican candidate for state senator.

The Democratic candidates for senator include Sen. Herbert Traubert of Follansbee, the incumbent, William Tompos of Weirton and Donald Chaney of Chester. Sen. Traubert is seeking a fourth term.

Taverns In Hancock To Close For Voting

Hancock County taverns must close during voting hours in Tuesday's primary in West Virginia, Sheriff Clayton H. Hobbs warned today.

Sheriff Hobbs added that tavern owners may open their establishments after the polls close in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland and Weirton. Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. until 8:30 p. m.

Five Democrats and three Republicans are seeking nomination to two Circuit Court judgeships for eight-year terms.

Seek Renomination

Judge J. Harold Brennan of Weirton and Wheeling, a Republican, and Judge J. J. P. O'Brien of Wheeling, a Democrat, are up for renomination in the circuit which embraces Hancock, Ohio and Brooke Counties.

Other Democrats in the primary include W. F. Keefer of Wheeling, George G. Bailey of Triadelphia, Atty. William J. Moore of Weirton and Ralph E. Pryor of Wellsburg.

The Republican field, in addition to Judge Brennan, includes James G. McClure of Triadelphia, state racing commissioner, and William C. Piper of Wheeling.

The county will have a new sheriff in 1961 as Sheriff Clayton H. Hobbs of Chester cannot succeed himself under state law. Six Democrats and four Republicans are seeking the nominations.

Democrats Named

The Democratic candidates are: Joseph H. Mannypenny of New Cumberland, police chief of the village for many years; Frank A. Pinion of Weirton, manager of the P. & W. Bus Co.; John Paul DeFelice of Weirton, co-owner of the Highland Motor Co.; Brooks Ash of Chester, a foreman at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co.; Robert A. Byers of Weirton, former police chief of Weirton, and Ralph L. Waite of Chester, a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor for 43 years.

The Republican field includes C. Dayton King, a Weirton real estate and insurance agency operator; Donald C. Bates of Chester, a deputy county assessor; Silas Boley of Weirton, former member of the Board of Education, and George Konchar of Weirton, who was edged out by Sheriff Hobbs for the post in the 1956 general election recount.

Atty. Frank A. Pietranton and Atty. Floyd R. Tarr, both of Weirton, are opposed for the Democratic nomination for prosecuting attorney. Atty. Pietranton is seeking his third consecutive term.

Rosenshine Unopposed

Atty. A. J. Rosenshine of Weirton, admitted to the West Virginia Bar Association in 1925, is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

The Republicans lack a candidate for nomination for a seat in the House of Delegates. Two Democratic candidates are Miss Callie Tsapis of Chester and Weirton, an attorney and incumbent, and Charles I. Jones of Weirton.

Edward L. Suplee of Weirton is unopposed for the GOP nomination of county assessor. Three are seeking the Democratic nomination—Anthony (Tony) Leon, a former professional football player and businessman; Nelson Ross, former city clerk, and Mrs. Della M. Ferguson, a waitress and widow of a former county assessor, all of Weirton.

5 Seek 3 Board Posts

Three seats on the county Board of Education are to be filled from among five candidates. They will be elected.

Heading the list is Dr. W. Dale Williams, president of the county board and president of the West Virginia Association of School Boards. He is a dentist in the county seat.

Also seeking re-election are Robert H. Miller of Weirton and John W. Boyd of Chester. Boyd must run in the primary after being appointed to fill the unexpired term of Robert G. Stewart last year.

Francis W. Newbrough of Weirton and John Abrams of Chester are the other two candidates.

A. L. Stackpole of Newell is unopposed for the Democratic nomination of county surveyor, a post which he presently fills.

Party Posts At Stake

All other office candidates are seeking nomination to justice of the peace and constable posts in the three districts. Voters also will elect party executive committees.

Eighteen candidates — the highest for any office — are seeking the nomination to Grant District constable. Nine are candidates for Grant District justice of the peace.

The GOP constable candidates are L. W. (Pete) Board, Harold Davis, Earl Cox, Hugo Taudien, James Cheuvront, Roy R. Walker, Edwin E. Smith, Raymond Bryan and J. Carl Durham.

The Democratic slate includes Roy E. Hart, Howard Angle, William P. Ambrose, William G. Brewer, Clyde A. Geer, Alvin R. Mooney, Orren Reed, Pete Capito and Raymond F. Moore.

Republican candidates for Grant justice of the peace are Squire W. Eugene Allison, Arthur Grogg, John Lincoln Owen, Harry Lytton and Joseph Dickey. On the Democratic ticket are William McCauley, Leland D. Fowler, Robert A. Moore and Floyd (Beans) Cunningham.

Clay District Ticket

In Clay District, Squire John D. Herron is seeking his fifth straight nomination for Republican justice of the peace. John Richard Watson also is a GOP candidate. The Democrat candidates are Jack S. Bryan Jr., and Shields Cullen.

James Arehart of Pughtown is unopposed for the GOP nomination for Clay District constable. The Democratic candidates are Donald Dunlevy, James F. Wellington, Richard E. Bennett, Sam Swain and Radar M. Stanley.

In Butler District, Weirton voters will ballot on three candidates for county commissioner. Dave N. Thomas, a banker, is incumbent commissioner and on the GOP ticket. The Democratic aspirants are Robert Finley and Charles (Chappy) Ballato.

7 For Committeemen

Weirton voters also will nominate to Butler justice of the peace and constable posts, in addition to committeemen from seven wards.

Eleven Democrats and eight Republicans are asking election to their county executive committees.

The Democratic slate includes Arnold R. Durham, Donna Marie Wright and Anthony Tridico, all of Grant; Arnold Anderson, Margaret Baxter, Edith Cox, Edna Clark and Mrs. James Tokash, all of Clay; and Samuel Locascio, Pauline Kondik and Margaret Paolisso, all of Butler.

The GOP list for county executive committee member includes William E. Mountjoy and Theresa M. Smith of Grant; Howard Gilmer, John Paul Jones and Mrs. Ora McKenzie, all of Clay, and Henry A. Capas, Mrs. John A. Ferguson and George Lesko, all of Butler.

Two from each party are candidates for the 1st Judicial Circuit executive committee. They are Anna Bugnone and Earl A. Martinelli, both Democrats, and L. E. Yurko and Charlotte Yurko, Republicans.

Hancock also will ballot on candidates for U. S. senator, congressman from the 1st Congressional District, and delegate-at-large to the national convention, along with all state offices, from governor down.

Presidential hopefuls Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota — who have campaigned vigorously in the Northern Panhandle — also are listed on the ballot.

Candidates for U. S. senator include Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Republican, and Jennings Randolph of Elkins, Democrat.

Arch A. Moore Jr., is seeking renomination as Republican congressman from the 1st district. Steven D. Narick of Moundsville is the Democratic candidate. The district includes seven counties.

he called police and walked into a checkroom. Salsberry followed and started the fight, he said.

In an attempt to frighten him, Barnes grabbed his .38-caliber revolver from underneath a cloth on the shelf, the night clerk told officers.

But Salsberry continued to battle him, Barnes said, and the gun went off. The bullet hit Salsberry in the lower abdomen and penetrated downward into his right leg. The bullet, lodged just under the skin, was removed yesterday.

Despite the wound, Salsberry took the gun away from Barnes and got him down on the floor, police were told.

Barnes said he held the gun barrel in his left hand and struggled to turn it away as Salsberry attempted to point it at him. The gun discharged again in the struggle and the bullet went through the night clerk's left hand.

Police received the first word of the fight at 4:19 a. m. from Barnes.

Lt. Winters said he was standing in the Diamond when an unidentified young man told him the hotel clerk was in trouble.

The officer said he hurried to the hotel and met Patrolman E. R. Ferguson in front of the building. Lt. Winters said he was told Salsberry was holding a gun on Barnes. Just then, Patrolman R. B. Pyle drove up in the East End cruiser.

Lt. Winters said he went in the door and saw Salsberry holding the .38-caliber gun over Barnes, who was lying on the floor in the rear of the lobby.

The officer said he grabbed Salsberry's hand and arm in which he held the revolver and started to disarm him when Patrolmen Ferguson and Pyle came to his assistance. Patrolman Paul Burson Jr. arrived a few minutes later.

Taverns In Hancock To Close For Voting

Hancock County taverns must close during voting hours in Tuesday's primary in West Virginia, Sheriff Clayton H. Hobbs warned today.

Sheriff Hobbs added that tavern owners may open their establishments after the polls close in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland and Weirton. Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. until 8:30 p. m.

Five Democrats and three Republicans are seeking nomination to two Circuit Court judgeships for eight-year terms.

Seek Renomination

Judge J. Harold Brennan of Weirton and Wheeling, a Republican, and Judge J. J. P. O'Brien of Wheeling, a Democrat, are up for renomination in the circuit which embraces Hancock, Ohio and Brooke Counties.

Other Democrats in the primary include W. F. Keefer of Wheeling, George G. Bailey of Triadelphia, Atty. William J. Moore of Weirton and Ralph E. Pryor of Wellsburg.

The Republican field, in addition to Judge Brennan, includes James G. McClure of Triadelphia, state racing commissioner, and William C. Piper of Wheeling.

The county will have a new sheriff in 1961 as Sheriff Clayton H. Hobbs of Chester cannot succeed himself under state law. Six Democrats and four Republicans are seeking the nominations.

Democrats Named

The Democratic candidates are: Joseph H. Mannypenny of New Cumberland, police chief of the village for many years; Frank A. Pinion of Weirton, manager of the P. & W. Bus Co.; John Paul DeFelice of Weirton, co-owner of the Highland Motor Co.; Brooks Ash of Chester, a foreman at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co.; Robert A. Byers of Weirton, former police chief of Weirton, and Ralph L. Waite of Chester, a Pennsylvania Railroad conductor for 43 years.

The Republican field includes C. Dayton King, a Weirton real estate and insurance agency operator; Donald C. Bates of Chester, a deputy county assessor; Silas Boley of Weirton, former member of the Board of Education, and George Konchar of Weirton, who was edged out by Sheriff Hobbs for the post in the 1956 general election recount.

Atty. Frank A. Pietranton and Atty. Floyd R. Tarr, both of Weirton, are opposed for the Democratic nomination for prosecuting attorney. Atty. Pietranton is seeking his third consecutive term.

Rosenshine Unopposed

Atty. A. J. Rosenshine of Weirton, admitted to the West Virginia Bar Association in 1925, is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

The Republicans lack a candidate for nomination for a seat in the House of Delegates. Two Democratic candidates are Miss Callie Tsapis of Chester and Weirton, an attorney and incumbent, and Charles I. Jones of Weirton.

Edward L. Suplee of Weirton is unopposed for the GOP nomination of county assessor. Three are seeking the Democratic nomination—Anthony (Tony) Leon, a former professional football player and businessman; Nelson Ross, former city clerk, and Mrs. Della M. Ferguson, a waitress and widow of a former county assessor, all of Weirton.

5 Seek 3 Board Posts

Three seats on the county Board of Education are to be filled from among five candidates. They will be elected.

Heading the list is Dr. W. Dale Williams, president of the county board and president of the West Virginia Association of School Boards. He is a dentist in the county seat.

Also seeking re-election are Robert H. Miller of Weirton and John W. Boyd of Chester. Boyd must run in the primary after being appointed to fill the unexpired term of Robert G. Stewart last year.

Francis W. Newbrough of Weirton and John Abrams of Chester are the other two candidates.

A. L. Stackpole of Newell is unopposed for the Democratic nomination of county surveyor, a post which he presently fills.

Party Posts At Stake

All other office candidates are seeking nomination to justice of the peace and constable posts in the three districts. Voters also will elect party executive committees.

Eighteen candidates — the highest for any office — are seeking the nomination to Grant District constable. Nine are candidates for Grant District justice of the peace.

7 For Committeemen

Weirton voters also will nominate to Butler justice of the peace and constable posts, in addition to committeemen from seven wards.

Eleven Democrats and eight Republicans are asking election to their county executive committees.

The Democratic slate includes Arnold R. Durham, Donna Marie Wright and Anthony Tridico, all of Grant; Arnold Anderson, Margaret Baxter, Edith Cox, Edna Clark and Mrs. James Tokash, all of Clay; and Samuel Locascio, Pauline Kondik and Margaret Paolisso, all of Butler.

Two from each party are candidates for the 1st Judicial Circuit executive committee. They are Anna Bugnone and Earl A. Martinelli, both Democrats, and L. E. Yurko and Charlotte Yurko, Republicans.

Hancock also will ballot on candidates for U. S. senator, congressman from the 1st Congressional District, and delegate-at-large to the national convention, along with all state offices, from governor down.

Presidential hopefuls Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota — who have campaigned vigorously in the Northern Panhandle — also are listed on the ballot.

Gun

he called police and walked into a checkroom. Salsberry followed and started the fight, he said.

In an attempt to frighten him, Barnes grabbed his .38-caliber revolver from underneath a cloth on the shelf, the night clerk told officers.

But Salsberry continued to battle him, Barnes said, and the gun went off. The bullet hit Salsberry in the lower abdomen and penetrated downward into his right leg. The bullet, lodged just under the skin, was removed yesterday.

Despite the wound, Salsberry took the gun away from Barnes and got him down on the floor, police were told.

Barnes said he held the gun barrel in his left hand and struggled to turn it away as Salsberry attempted to point it at him. The gun discharged again in the struggle and the bullet went through the night clerk's left hand.

Police received the first word of the fight at 4:19 a. m. from Barnes.

Lt. Winters said he was standing in the Diamond when an unidentified young man told him the hotel clerk was in trouble.

The officer said he hurried to the hotel and met Patrolman E. R. Ferguson in front of the building. Lt. Winters said he was told Salsberry was holding a gun on Barnes. Just then, Patrolman R. B. Pyle drove up in the East End cruiser.

Lt. Winters said he went in the door and saw Salsberry holding the .38-caliber gun over Barnes, who was lying on the floor in the rear of the lobby.

The officer said he grabbed Salsberry's hand and arm in which he held the revolver and started to disarm him when Patrolmen Ferguson and Pyle came to his assistance. Patrolman Paul Burson Jr. arrived a few minutes later.

'What About The Living?' Lausche Asks In Fund Rift

By JAMES B. SIBBISON

WASHINGTON (AP)—In nearly four years as a senator, Democrat Frank J. Lausche of Ohio has talked at length against what he considers wasteful government spending.

In general, though, he has gone along with spending billions to help foreign countries, militarily or otherwise.

This has not prevented him, however, from complaining about individual items in this legislation —such as spending U.S. money to unearth ancient Nubian relics in Egypt.

Lausche noted the other day that the foreign aid bill proposed that the President be permitted to enter an agreement with other countries to form a fund for this purpose.

The reason is that the Aswan Dam being built in Egypt will form a lake that will inundate an area containing perhaps 21 Nubian monuments, considered priceless by archaeologists.

Lausche made it plain to the Senate that he thought, at least, that the United States should not rush hastily into a project of this kind.

"There has been some arrangement proposed, which has not yet been settled as to detail, to divide 50-50 the discoveries made in the excavatoin. . ." Lausche asserted.

"May I point out that we may become a nation of monuments? We may spend more money on the dead than on the living, and that day may come sooner than we think."

But Lausche found considerable ipposition, as well as sympathy, among senators.

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla), for one, said that actually the money that would be spent wouldn't be U.S. dollars at all. It would be Egyptian pounds, money that has accumulated as a result of selling Egypt surplus farm commodities for its currencies.

This country has to find some use for this money, Monroney said. He estimated we now have about 80 million dollars worth of Egyptian pounds that we have no other use for.

"If we do not authorize the President to see if we can preserve these historic monuments we are going to have to hold these local currencies in warehouses," he said.

As it turned out, the Senate refused, 44-40, to approve Lausche's proposal to knock the agreement on the Nubian statues out of the bill.

Lausche said he still felt that the debate on his proposal did some good.

"The U.S. Senate is beginning to admit that the foreign currency which we hold is worth nothing, and it is frantically trying to find ways and means of dissipating it," he said.

This country has to find some use for this money, Monroney said. He estimated we now have about 80 million dollars worth of Egyptian pounds that we have no other use for.

"If we do not authorize the President to see if we can preserve these historic monuments we are going to have to hold these local currencies in warehouses," he said.

As it turned out, the Senate refused, 44-40, to approve Lausche's proposal to knock the agreement on the Nubian statues out of the bill.

Lausche said he still felt that the debate on his proposal did some good.

"The U.S. Senate is beginning to admit that the foreign currency which we hold is worth nothing, and it is frantically trying to find ways and means of dissipating it," he said.

Classes will operate for both elementary and secondary level students of the area on a tuition basis.

The elementary program will operate June 6 through July 15, with 6 weeks of classes, 5 days a week for 3 hours a day from 9 a. m. to noon. Tuition will be $1 a day or $30 for the complete summer course.

The secondary schedule is June 6 through Aug. 5, 9 weeks of classes, 5 days a week, 3 hours a day. Tuition is $1 a day or $45 for the course.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to the man who signed himself "Sadder but Wiser" was an excellent example of the unfairness of the so-called "fair sex."

When a man jilts a woman he is a base hound, a despicable cad and a dirty bum besides. In some states, courts consider her feelings to be so delicate as to be worth several thousands of dollars in balm suits.

On the other hand, if a female tramp (no editing necessary) jilts a man after he spends "X" number of hours and dollars wooing the phony broad, it's considered his tough luck and a big fat joke as well. No sympathy for the man. People die laughing and console him with such lines as "Oh, brother, you sure got taken for a ride!"

Of course you are so anti-male, Ann Landers, if I see this letter in print I'll eat my new straw hat. — MERE MALE.

Dear Mere: Start nibblin', Buster. And may I suggest you add a bit of sugar and cream? Tell yourself it's shredded wheat.

Insult To Injury

Dear Ann: My husband's niece got married and we were not invited to the wedding. Three weeks later we received an announcement. My husband said, "We'll have to send them something nice."

I didn't feel they had a gift coming, but to keep peace I bought a centerpiece with attached candlesticks. It cost $15.95, which is a lot of money to us.

Yesterday my mother-in-law phoned and said, "Jean received the centerpiece but no candles." I told her no candles came with the set. She snorted, "Who ever heard of sending an incomplete gift? You must buy her some nice candles and say the store forgot to send them out."

When I told my husband, he said if his mother thinks we should send candles, to go ahead and send them. I'm boiling. He has agreed to do as you say. — D.S.

Dear D.S.: The centerpiece sounds like a lovely gift and there is no need to send candles. If you sent a vase you wouldn't feel obligated to put flowers in it, would you?

It's nonsense that a gift must be "complete." It's perfectly proper to give one or two pieces of silver or china, to help fill out a bride's set.

Etiquetta Primer

Dear Ann: Women are so independent it's hard to know when to take the initiative these days. Will you please help us stumbling men by printing the answers to a few simple rules of etiquette?

1. Who gets out of an elevator first?

2. Does a man remove his glove to shake hands with a lady? Does she remove her gloves?

3. Who goes down the aisle first in a theater?

4. Who gets off the bus or street car first?

5. Who orders first in a restaurant?

Thank you. — KNOT-HEAD KENNY.

Dear Kenny: The answers are as follows?

1. The ones nearest the elevator door leave first—male or female. The man who thinks he's being courteous by letting the women in the rear leave first succeeds only in blocking the way.

2. A man always removes his glove. A woman never.

3. The lady follows the usher. If there's no usher the gentleman leads the way.

4. The man always alights first from bus or street car to assist the lady.

5. The woman tells her escort what she would like to eat and he orders for both.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Water Safety Demonstration Planned For County Students

LISBON — A water safety program sponsored by the Columbiana County rural school system will be presented Monday, May 16, at Mark's Landing at Guilford Lake. Approximately 570 junior and senior students from the four county high schools will be present, according to County Supt. James L. McBride.

Rufus L. Lide, Columbiana County game warden, said the program will stress these points:

1—Proper way to get in and out of small boats; 2—Importance of boat capacity; 3—Legal safety requirements; 4—Traffic rules and courtesy; 5—What to do if a boat capsizes; 6—Life saving and mouth - to - mouth resuscitation, and 7—Pleasures and dangers of skin diving and water skiing.

The U. S. Power Squadron and the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary of Youngstown and the State Highway Patrol will furnish two skin diving experts for demonstrations and an Alliance boat manufacturing firm will provide the watercraft, Lide said.

Supt. McBride said he feels it is the responsibility of the schools to see that the students are educated in water safety the same as in traffic safety.

The schedules for the four schools follows:

9:15 to 10:30 a. m. — United Local juniors and seniors and Fairfield - Waterford seniors.

10:30 to 11:45 a. m. — Beaver Local juniors and seniors.

1:30 to 2:45 p. m. — Fairfield-Waterford juniors and Southern Local juniors and seniors.

According to state school officials, this is the first county sponsoring such a program and a committee of teachers and laymen will be asked to compile water safety material for use in the curriculum for county schools, McBride said.

The mayor pointed out that the crippling disease of the central nervous system generally affects young adults between 20 and 40. An estimated 500 are affected in the three-county area, he added.

The fund drive helps support scientific research to find a cure for multiple sclerosis and also provides aid to MS patients and their families, the mayor's proclamation asserted.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

How Wise Parents Deal With Tantrums

Tantrums occur most often between the ages of two and five. Although any physical condition needing medical care may encourage or intensify the child's tantrums, there are two main types of causes: 1. The parent's inconsistency in saying or dramatizing No. 2. The parent's failure to draw the line between forbiddings and requirements — that is, keeping the youngster from doing undesirable things he wants to do and getting him to do what she wants him to do. When parents say No or act No, the youngster, after crying awhile, may be granted his wish. A few such victories by the child and the mother may let him cry a little longer before surrendering, the next time still a little longer, and so on.

By Garry Meyer.

EACH TIME, as he cries a bit longer, he grows a little angrier, and may eventually reach a violent rage or tantrum. If, finally, he wins, his victory renders him more ready to hold out longer next time.

If you are going to take up the crying infant or take him into bed with you, why let him cry so long? Why wait until he is enraged? If, eventually, you are going to let him have or do what you had told him you wouldn't, why not do so right away?

The longer and more often you practice him in fighting for what he wants, the bigger his reward when he wins.

But you say, "I can't always let him have his way."

So you can't. Then you must decide beforehand when to say No or dramatize No. Having decided, stick to your decision except in rare emergencies. Don't let his cries or tantrums force you to shift from No to Yes.

OCCASIONALLY A youngster under one or two may get angry or have a tantrum when, operating a top, he can't reach his objective with it. If you always rush to help him, he may be rewarded for further rage when so frustrated. As a rule, if let alone he soon will learn to solve his own problem or adapt to the inevitable.

It's when the youngster refuses to do what you want him to do that you need to employ most skill and wisdom.

Strangely enough, most parents, regardless of their education, suppose they can as easily force the child's obedience then as if they had said or acted No.

The college professor, business executive, or day laborer may command the tot of two or three to bring him his slippers as readily as to command him to quit pounding the puppy.

But while one good whack on the youngster's fundament might easily keep him from tormenting the puppy, he might not choose to go for the slippers even if severely punished.

A WISER PARENT won't command a child so young to get his slippers. He'll ask him and let him choose whether to do it or not. Barring a few routines, he'll limit his commands to the few things the young child must not do.

Whereas the youngster over five or six may sometimes profit from some positive commands, there never comes a time when selective requests can't be effective for preventing and reducing stubbornness and cultivating co-operation.

More on tantrums tomorrow.

Dress Pattern Starts Reducing Plan

A dress pattern, spread out ready for cutting the material, motivated one spirited overweight to alter her figure. A happy Pennsylvanian writes:

By Ida Jean Kain

"I joined a sewing club last October and when I got my measurements and saw that size 18½ pattern, extra wide through the middle measurement —that did it. I decided then and there to diet and to exercise.

"I had allowed my weight to go up to 150 pounds. This may not seem like much to some, but I looked all of it for I am only 5 feet 3½ tall. I had a bustline of 40; waist 31; and hips 44.

"I love to eat. I love sweets and home-baked goods. I had no calorie counter but I read your column every day and started to follow the diet suggestions and the exercises. I exercised 20 minutes every day. At first I was so sore I could hardly move, but soon I was doing them with ease.

"I DIDN'T SEEM to lose much weight but my measurements were slimming down. When I weighed 144 pounds my bust was 39½ inches; waist 29; hips 41½. Then I saw your emergency two-day high protein diet and followed that for a couple of days.

"I was amazed at the drop in weight. Also I continued my exercises. Now I weigh 133 pounds with these measurements: Bust 39; waist 27½; hips, 40. I just bought a size 14 dress and I feel wonderful. This figure change took almost 5 and ½ months and persistent exercising. . .but it was surely worth it.

"I have a 9-year-old who was terribly chubby. I read in your column where 9 to 12 years of age is a good time to encourage chubbies to slim down. I have my daughter taking mild exercises and watching her diet. She is coming along fine.

"I feel so good I would like to help anyone who really wants to slim down. I know how embarrassed I was by my size."

That's a real triumph. This reducer has accomplished the seemingly impossible by changing from a half size to a regular size. It was the sheer magic of exercise that slimmed her measurements to make the smaller size possible.

SOME READERS with the same height and weight as our model may doubt that she can wear a size 14. Before you challenge her, exercise to whittle your waist to 27½ and tone up the girdle muscles.

True, you may still require size 16 because of your shoulders, but you will look beautifully streamlined with your new measurements.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "For A Slimmer Midriff" and "Perfect Dress Size Chart." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

REASONS FOR V.F.W. MEMBERSHIP

Why memberships, why the constant stress and striving for it? Why the various membership programs, prizes, and gimmicks to promote it? These questions are readily answerable.

I like to think of the answer in an old shop worn phrase! "In union there is strength." We should think of our organization in the same manner in which we think of the union's we belong to. In our every day work life we know we can't bargain individually with our employer's for benefits, but collectively we do so and with a great measure of success, by the same token we can't bargain with the V. A. nor with any other administrative agency, nor can we bargain with our legislative branches of the government, but by being a large. progressive and dynamic organization with a record of constant growth we can wield a clud that all politicians fear. An organization with a large and continually growing memberships roster, indivisible in its aim's for continued veterans benefits.

I wonder how Congressman John A. Dodgem, who speaks out so eloquently and persuasively on economy in government, this economy can be effected only by cutting veteran's benefits, pensions, and closing of hospitals would speak if he were confronted by a union of veterans all agreed on a positive and progressive program, he most certainly would speak out against the evils of cutting the veteran out of his pensions and benefits, and that the closing of V. A. hospitals would be the epitome of all that is evil, he would most certainly be aware that his defeat would be insured at the polls the next election.

This striving for memberships goes even further than a means to protect the candidate our gains in benefits and pensions, membership in the V. F. W. is a form of insurance for our democratic way of life. We let ourselves slip too easily into apathy, we become careless and fail to see the threats to our free existence that are continuously around us with a strong organization we can be constantly aware and alert to these subtle and insidious menaces. We can fight them successfully with a large and an alert membership.

We have often stated that increasing membership just for the sake of numerical gain is insane and useless. There must be a purpose. The aims and ideals of the Veterans of Foreign Wars must constantly be expounded. Our community service and youth activity programs must constantly be expanded. We must of necessity become active in civic affairs, we certainly cannot do these things with a dragging and lagging membership.

We must make the eligible member aware that he is joining an organization with a positive program, a program that is designed to be active in all phases of his life, that his membership in the V.F.W. will serve to better his home, his community, and his country. We must make him aware that the activities of the organization will in the end make him and his family the recipient of all the organization accomplishes.

Let us go out and let those eligible for membership in the V.F.W. know what can be gained by joining our organization. We know, so we had better let them know and it will be a simple matter to get them to join. Let them know of the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. that in itself should suffice.

The V.F.W. has so much to offer, the problem we are facing is an apparent inability to make known the benefits and the self satisfaction to be derived from being a member in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the most exclusive progressive, the dynamic organization in the world of the Veteran, the Veteran of Foreign War's of the United States.

We have a youth program in fact one of the best in the State of Ohio, our community service has been growing better every year, we have 17 acres of ground for camping, fishing and our family picnics, also our own insurance plan, one of few which has this plan, $200 maximum. Christmas party each year for children.

Dress Pattern Starts Reducing Plan

A dress pattern, spread out ready for cutting the material, motivated one spirited overweight to alter her figure. A happy Pennsylvanian writes:

By Ida Jean Kain

"I joined a sewing club last October and when I got my measurements and saw that size 18½ pattern, extra wide through the middle measurement —that did it. I decided then and there to diet and to exercise.

"I had allowed my weight to go up to 150 pounds. This may not seem like much to some, but I looked all of it for I am only 5 feet 3½ tall. I had a bustline of 40; waist 31; and hips 44.

"I love to eat. I love sweets and home-baked goods. I had no calorie counter but I read your column every day and started to follow the diet suggestions and the exercises. I exercised 20 minutes every day. At first I was so sore I could hardly move, but soon I was doing them with ease.

"I DIDN'T SEEM to lose much weight but my measurements were slimming down. When I weighed 144 pounds my bust was 39½ inches; waist 29; hips 41½. Then I saw your emergency two-day high protein diet and followed that for a couple of days.

"I was amazed at the drop in weight. Also I continued my exercises. Now I weigh 133 pounds with these measurements: Bust 39; waist 27½; hips, 40. I just bought a size 14 dress and I feel wonderful. This figure change took almost 5 and ½ months and persistent exercising. . .but it was surely worth it.

"I have a 9-year-old who was terribly chubby. I read in your column where 9 to 12 years of age is a good time to encourage chubbies to slim down. I have my daughter taking mild exercises and watching her diet. She is coming along fine.

"I feel so good I would like to help anyone who really wants to slim down. I know how embarrassed I was by my size."

That's a real triumph. This reducer has accomplished the seemingly impossible by changing from a half size to a regular size. It was the sheer magic of exercise that slimmed her measurements to make the smaller size possible.

SOME READERS with the same height and weight as our model may doubt that she can wear a size 14. Before you challenge her, exercise to whittle your waist to 27½ and tone up the girdle muscles.

True, you may still require size 16 because of your shoulders, but you will look beautifully streamlined with your new measurements.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "For A Slimmer Midriff" and "Perfect Dress Size Chart." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

REASONS FOR V.F.W. MEMBERSHIP

Why memberships, why the constant stress and striving for it? Why the various membership programs, prizes, and gimmicks to promote it? These questions are readily answerable.

I like to think of the answer in an old shop worn phrase! "In union there is strength." We should think of our organization in the same manner in which we think of the union's we belong to. In our every day work life we know we can't bargain individually with our employer's for benefits, but collectively we do so and with a great measure of success, by the same token we can't bargain with the V. A. nor with any other administrative agency, nor can we bargain with our legislative branches of the government, but by being a large. progressive and dynamic organization with a record of constant growth we can wield a clud that all politicians fear. An organization with a large and continually growing memberships roster, indivisible in its aim's for continued veterans benefits.

I wonder how Congressman John A. Dodgem, who speaks out so eloquently and persuasively on economy in government, this economy can be effected only by cutting veteran's benefits, pensions, and closing of hospitals would speak if he were confronted by a union of veterans all agreed on a positive and progressive program, he most certainly would speak out against the evils of cutting the veteran out of his pensions and benefits, and that the closing of V. A. hospitals would be the epitome of all that is evil, he would most certainly be aware that his defeat would be insured at the polls the next election.

This striving for memberships goes even further than a means to protect the candidate our gains in benefits and pensions, membership in the V. F. W. is a form of insurance for our democratic way of life. We let ourselves slip too easily into apathy, we become careless and fail to see the threats to our free existence that are continuously around us with a strong organization we can be constantly aware and alert to these subtle and insidious menaces. We can fight them successfully with a large and an alert membership.

We have often stated that increasing membership just for the sake of numerical gain is insane and useless. There must be a purpose. The aims and ideals of the Veterans of Foreign Wars must constantly be expounded. Our community service and youth activity programs must constantly be expanded. We must of necessity become active in civic affairs, we certainly cannot do these things with a dragging and lagging membership.

We must make the eligible member aware that he is joining an organization with a positive program, a program that is designed to be active in all phases of his life, that his membership in the V.F.W. will serve to better his home, his community, and his country. We must make him aware that the activities of the organization will in the end make him and his family the recipient of all the organization accomplishes.

Let us go out and let those eligible for membership in the V.F.W. know what can be gained by joining our organization. We know, so we had better let them know and it will be a simple matter to get them to join. Let them know of the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. that in itself should suffice.

The V.F.W. has so much to offer, the problem we are facing is an apparent inability to make known the benefits and the self satisfaction to be derived from being a member in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the most exclusive progressive, the dynamic organization in the world of the Veteran, the Veteran of Foreign War's of the United States.

We have a youth program in fact one of the best in the State of Ohio, our community service has been growing better every year, we have 17 acres of ground for camping, fishing and our family picnics, also our own insurance plan, one of few which has this plan, $200 maximum. Christmas party each year for children.

Salt Hurts Deer

ELY, Minn. (AP) — Game wardens blamed salt used to deice roads in the wintertime for deaths of many deer hit by cars. They say deer are attracted to roads to lick the salt in the spring.

$65,000 and a "share and share alike" split if he would drop out, and Barron has brought suit against Skeen for slander and libel.

Hullett C. Smith, the other Democrat running, was not involved until yesterday, then George Titler, president of District 29 of the United Mine Workers, claimed Smith was in on a deal. This deal, Titler said, was between Skeen and Smith, among others, and was meant to help Smith's chances of getting the nomination. A denial came from Smith immediately.

The Republicans have produced their intra-party controversies. The biggest one probably was over Gov. Underwood's endorsement of Harold Neely for the nomination for governor. Chapman Revercomb, the other Republican running, cried "bossism" and revival of the old statehouse machine. Underwood snapped back that his position was being deliberately distorted and misrepresented.

Neely did not mix in directly. His harshest criticism has been for Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for what he considers the bad publicity they've brought the state through their campaigns for the presidential primary.

car operated by Charles Plotner, 58, of Canton, and the crash flipped Fogarascher's car into the path of another auto, headed in the opposite direction and driven by Robert L. Roberts, 40, of Newgarden St., Salem.

The death occurred in Columbiana County, according to officers, making it the 11th so far this year compared to 10 at this time in 1959.

Fogarascher suffered lacerations of the head, and Mildred Perry, 40, of Leetonia, a passenger with Roberts, suffered bruises of the legs.

Mrs. Leteshia Hammon, 39, of 761 Sophia St. is in "fairly good" condition at City Hospital with injuries suffered Sunday afternoon when her car turned over along Route 30 between Rock Camp and Apples Corners.

Mrs. Emma Webber, 60, of Daisy Ln., a passenger in Mrs. Hammon's auto, was treated for abrasions of the leg and bruises of the forehead suffered in the mishap.

Mrs. Hammon suffered multiple abrasions and lacerations of the legs, knees and right hand. Officers said she lost control of the 1955 sedan, which veered off the roadway and overturned about 1:25 p. m. The crash still is under investigation.

Mrs. Dolly DeBrito, 44, of Wood St., Industry, is in "good" condition at the hospital with possible back and leg injuries suffered when a car in which she was a passenger was struck by another on Route 154 about seven miles east of Lisbon yesterday morning about 11.

The patrol said she was in a car driven by Mathias DeBrito, 60, her husband, which was sideswiped by one operated by Dale Burt, 24, of Columbiana R. D. 1, who was cited for reckless operation.

Another fatal crash occurred Saturday just over the county line near Salem when Charles Lester Cook, 20, of Canfield apparently fell asleep and his small auto veered off Route 14 Alternate about two miles east of Salem at 2:20 a. m. He was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital.

Robert J. Anderson, 19, of Washington, Pa., a stable boy, was treated at City Hospital Sunday morning for injuries received when his car slid off Route 30 near the Crockery City Farms and struck some trees. He suffered abrasions of the neck, left arm and right hand and bruises of the lip.

Randall Wright, 19, of Kensington was cited for reckless operation Sunday night after his car overturned along Route 14 Alternate a mile east of Salem.

Minor damage resulted to cars driven by Charles Tracy, 32, of Youngstown and George Adams, 58, of Cleveland which sideswiped on Route 7 four miles south of Rogers yesterday at 12:40 p. m.

Only slight damage was reported to two cars which collided on Route 30 and a half mile west of Hanoverton Saturday night. A car driven by Harold Noble, 18, of Carrollton struck another operated by Harvey Hawkins, 17, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 as Noble tried to pass Hawkins, who was making a turn. Noble was charged with reckless operation.

A slight collision between cars operated by Loren Griffin, 26, and John Forrester, 23, both of East Liverpool occurred on the Y. and O. Rd. Saturday. Officers said Griffin made a turn off the Y. and O. Rd. and the front of his auto struck the front of Forrester's on Township Rd. 925.

A car driven by Edith Glunt, 53, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 and another operated by William Riggs, 65, of Wolfdale, Pa., collided on Route 30 about a half mile east of Hanoverton Saturday.

The woman made a turn just as Riggs attempted to pass. Bobby Riggs, 4, son of the driver, was treated at a Canton Hospital for a bruised forehead.

Some 13 or 14 crashes were investigated by the patrol over the weekend.

Rebel Faction Hits At Pay Of McDonald

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A rebel faction within the United Steelworkers wants to trim the annual salary of USW President David J. McDonald by $10,000.

Such a proposal was made Sunday at the windup of a two-day conference. McDonald, a principal target of the insurgents, receives a salary of $50,000 a year.

The group formed in 1956 to oppose a hike in dues, changed its name at the meeting from the "Dues Protest Committee" to "The Organization for Membership Rights."

In other action, some 75 delegates from various parts of the country elected these officers:

Chairman, Donald C. Rarick, president of Local 2227, McKeesport, Pa.; vice-chairman, Anthony Tomko, president of Local 1408, McKeesport; secretary, Nicholas Mamula, president of Local 1211, Aliquippa, Pa.; and treasurer, Frank W. O'Brien, president of Local 1843, Pittsburgh.

unless the continuing rain causes more damage to cables.

Between 200 and 300 cases of phone interruption were reported originally in Calcutta, Chester, Newell and Irondale, Edwards said, with crews at work since Saturday afternoon attempting to dry out the lines.

Some homes have been without service for at least 24 hours because the heavy rainfall saturated the cables, Edwards said. The trouble was not concentrated in any particular area, he continued.

The dam lowered its wickets at 4:30 this morning when the river stood at 13.7 feet. Lowering the dam will permit the accumulation of water to run off harmlessly. In some spots in the Western Pennsylvania area, "flash" flooding was reported in small creeks, but no serious rise in the rivers was anticipated.

Jaycees said today the rained out auto show will be held Sunday, May 22. The arrangements for the new date were made at a meeting Sunday afternoon between the Jaycees and the Automobile Dealers Association.

Some of the dealers moved displays onto their spaces at the Skyview Theater Saturday morning, but never set them up.

A parade of antique cars was held through the downtown area Saturday about noon. This was the only scheduled event that was held. Further arrangements for the show will be announced later, the Jaycees said.

Although the downpour was bad news for the Jaycees, it was welcomed by district farmers and gardeners, whose land has been parched by an unusual lack of spring rainfall.

that other nations engaged in aerial espionage.

"It is certainly no secret that, given the state of the world today, intelligence collection activities are practiced by all countries, and postwar history certainly reveals that the Soviet Union has not been lagging behind in this field," the U.S. statement said.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev announced that the plane, before it was rocketed down, reached Sverdlovsk, some 1,400 miles northwest of the Pakistani border over which it crossed. The average Soviet reacted like Americans would at news a Soviet plane had been intercepted over Kansas.

Anger and uneasiness were heightened by the suspicion that other American high-level planes had penetrated Soviet air space without being intercepted.

In an attempt to reassure the people of the invincibility of the Soviet armed forces, the top military brass blanketed the papers with articles proclaiming the nation's ability to crush any aggressor.

The fact that the plane got deep into the Urals before being shot down boosted America's military reputation, but it had about the same effect on America's moral standing on a smaller scale as the Suez invasion had on French and British prestige.

The Soviet press poured out fresh details of the capture of pilot Francis G. Powers and lampooned the United States in cartoons and articles.

The papers told how workers on a state farm near Sverdlovsk came to Powers' aid when he parachuted from his plane on May Day but turned him over to the authorities when they found he carried a pistol with silencer, dagger, Soviet Union map, Soviet and foreign money, gold watches and women's gold rings, a survival kit, fishing net, pliers and a saw-edged knife.

"Our suspicions were more and more confirmed," said Vladimir Surin, a former sergeant. "An enemy was in front of us, an enemy cunning and impudent."

"The parachute jumper was quiet but assured. One could see he was well-schooled. He didn't say a word.

"He pretended he did not understand Russian, but when Farm Director Mikhail N. Berman said 'no smoking here' he immediately pushed an ashtray away. Our suspicious were more and more confirmed."

Khrushchev has indicated that Powers will be tried and said he might hold a news conference on the case. U.S. Embassy officials said so far Ambassador Lelewellyn E. Thompson had not tried to see Powers.

Powers, a former U.S. Air Force lieutenant from Pound, Va., became a test pilot for Lockheed in 1956. His U2 jet, which was based in Adana, Turkey, was one of a fleet ostensibly used in weather research by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Apparently Powers actually was an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

$65,000 and a "share and share alike" split if he would drop out, and Barron has brought suit against Skeen for slander and libel.

Hullett C. Smith, the other Democrat running, was not involved until yesterday, then George Titler, president of District 29 of the United Mine Workers, claimed Smith was in on a deal. This deal, Titler said, was between Skeen and Smith, among others, and was meant to help Smith's chances of getting the nomination. A denial came from Smith immediately.

The Republicans have produced their intra-party controversies. The biggest one probably was over Gov. Underwood's endorsement of Harold Neely for the nomination for governor. Chapman Revercomb, the other Republican running, cried "bossism" and revival of the old statehouse machine. Underwood snapped back that his position was being deliberately distorted and misrepresented.

Neely did not mix in directly. His harshest criticism has been for Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for what he considers the bad publicity they've brought the state through their campaigns for the presidential primary.

car operated by Charles Plotner, 58, of Canton, and the crash flipped Fogarascher's car into the path of another auto, headed in the opposite direction and driven by Robert L. Roberts, 40, of Newgarden St., Salem.

The death occurred in Columbiana County, according to officers, making it the 11th so far this year compared to 10 at this time in 1959.

Fogarascher suffered lacerations of the head, and Mildred Perry, 40, of Leetonia, a passenger with Roberts, suffered bruises of the legs.

Mrs. Leteshia Hammon, 39, of 761 Sophia St. is in "fairly good" condition at City Hospital with injuries suffered Sunday afternoon when her car turned over along Route 30 between Rock Camp and Apples Corners.

Mrs. Emma Webber, 60, of Daisy Ln., a passenger in Mrs. Hammon's auto, was treated for abrasions of the leg and bruises of the forehead suffered in the mishap.

Mrs. Hammon suffered multiple abrasions and lacerations of the legs, knees and right hand. Officers said she lost control of the 1955 sedan, which veered off the roadway and overturned about 1:25 p. m. The crash still is under investigation.

Mrs. Dolly DeBrito, 44, of Wood St., Industry, is in "good" condition at the hospital with possible back and leg injuries suffered when a car in which she was a passenger was struck by another on Route 154 about seven miles east of Lisbon yesterday morning about 11.

The patrol said she was in a car driven by Mathias DeBrito, 60, her husband, which was sideswiped by one operated by Dale Burt, 24, of Columbiana R. D. 1, who was cited for reckless operation.

Another fatal crash occurred Saturday just over the county line near Salem when Charles Lester Cook, 20, of Canfield apparently fell asleep and his small auto veered off Route 14 Alternate about two miles east of Salem at 2:20 a. m. He was pronounced dead at Salem City Hospital.

Robert J. Anderson, 19, of Washington, Pa., a stable boy, was treated at City Hospital Sunday morning for injuries received when his car slid off Route 30 near the Crockery City Farms and struck some trees. He suffered abrasions of the neck, left arm and right hand and bruises of the lip.

Randall Wright, 19, of Kensington was cited for reckless operation Sunday night after his car overturned along Route 14 Alternate a mile east of Salem.

Minor damage resulted to cars driven by Charles Tracy, 32, of Youngstown and George Adams, 58, of Cleveland which sideswiped on Route 7 four miles south of Rogers yesterday at 12:40 p. m.

Only slight damage was reported to two cars which collided on Route 30 and a half mile west of Hanoverton Saturday night. A car driven by Harold Noble, 18, of Carrollton struck another operated by Harvey Hawkins, 17, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 as Noble tried to pass Hawkins, who was making a turn. Noble was charged with reckless operation.

A slight collision between cars operated by Loren Griffin, 26, and John Forrester, 23, both of East Liverpool occurred on the Y. and O. Rd. Saturday. Officers said Griffin made a turn off the Y. and O. Rd. and the front of his auto struck the front of Forrester's on Township Rd. 925.

that other nations engaged in aerial espionage.

"It is certainly no secret that, given the state of the world today, intelligence collection activities are practiced by all countries, and postwar history certainly reveals that the Soviet Union has not been lagging behind in this field," the U.S. statement said.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev announced that the plane, before it was rocketed down, reached Sverdlovsk, some 1,400 miles northwest of the Pakistani border over which it crossed. The average Soviet reacted like Americans would at news a Soviet plane had been intercepted over Kansas.

Anger and uneasiness were heightened by the suspicion that other American high-level planes had penetrated Soviet air space without being intercepted.

In an attempt to reassure the people of the invincibility of the Soviet armed forces, the top military brass blanketed the papers with articles proclaiming the nation's ability to crush any aggressor.

The fact that the plane got deep into the Urals before being shot down boosted America's military reputation, but it had about the same effect on America's moral standing on a smaller scale as the Suez invasion had on French and British prestige.

The Soviet press poured out fresh details of the capture of pilot Francis G. Powers and lampooned the United States in cartoons and articles.

The papers told how workers on a state farm near Sverdlovsk came to Powers' aid when he parachuted from his plane on May Day but turned him over to the authorities when they found he carried a pistol with silencer, dagger, Soviet Union map, Soviet and foreign money, gold watches and women's gold rings, a survival kit, fishing net, pliers and a saw-edged knife.

"Our suspicions were more and more confirmed," said Vladimir Surin, a former sergeant. "An enemy was in front of us, an enemy cunning and impudent."

"The parachute jumper was quiet but assured. One could see he was well-schooled. He didn't say a word.

"He pretended he did not understand Russian, but when Farm Director Mikhail N. Berman said 'no smoking here' he immediately pushed an ashtray away. Our suspicious were more and more confirmed."

Khrushchev has indicated that Powers will be tried and said he might hold a news conference on the case. U.S. Embassy officials said so far Ambassador Lelewellyn E. Thompson had not tried to see Powers.

Powers, a former U.S. Air Force lieutenant from Pound, Va., became a test pilot for Lockheed in 1956. His U2 jet, which was based in Adana, Turkey, was one of a fleet ostensibly used in weather research by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Apparently Powers actually was an agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

As West Europe Views Incident

Real Blunder, Press Says Of Flight

LONDON (AP)—West European observers today considered that the downing of an American spy plane over the Soviet Union strengthens the hand of Premier Nikita Khrushchev and puts President Eisenhower in an embarrassing position for the Big Four summit talks opening in Paris May 16.

While recognizing that both East and West engage in intelligence activities, many observers felt that the United States blundered in its timing.

"The most disturbing feature of the incident is how the Americans came to authorize a flight of this kind on the eve of the summit meeting," said the influential London Times.

"Whatever the reason, there ought now to be a stringent tightening up in the control and coordination of the Central Intelligence Agency's activities."

The conservative Paris newspaper Le Figaro said that "history offers few comparable examples of clumsiness." It said the incident gives Khrushchev "arguments with which he can cover his intransigence if the adventure of the summit conference runs into difficulties."

London's leftist Daily Mirror declared the Powers flight was "sheer insanity." The liberal News Chronicle called it a "crass blunder." The Western leaders will start the summit conference with the knowledge that their "most powerful member has been outwitted with painful ease."

The State Department's explanation of the flight brought mixed reactions.

Konnie Zilliacus, a leftwing member of the British Parliament, said it was the "the classic excuse of the young lady who pleaded that her illegitimate baby was only a little one. The fact that the President apparently knew nothing of the dispatch of the spy plane makes matters, if anything, worse."

But the Straits Times of Singapore said: "The American government has done the proper thing to keep things in proportion by admitting—or all but—that their aircraft was seeking information." The newspaper said it was Khrushchev's luck that the American plane had been caught "when its becoming clear that Soviet jet bombers are flying regular sorties at high altitudes in Japanese air space."

Khrushchev charged the captured American flier, Francis G. Powers, took off from Peshawar in Pakistan for a spying flight across the Soviet Union with the intention of landing in Bodo, a northern Norwegian air base.

A Pakistani government spokesman in Karachi said an investigation showed that no such plane as Powers' Lockheed U2 had been at Peshawar at the time.

The Norwegian Foreign Ministry said it knew nothing of any plan for Powers to land in Bodo.

Turkey, where Powers' jet was based, declared in a statement: "No permission has been given by the Turkish government to any American planes for research flights over Soviet territory or for any other purpose."

Gary Hicks, scribe, read the minutes and led roll call of officers. On behalf of the chapter's Mothers' Circle, the Rev. William Hewitt of the Central Methodist Church of Wellsville presented Hicks and Smith with Bibles. Smith is past master councilor.

The next meeting will be May 19 at 7:30 p. m. in the Masonic Temple.

Turkaly pointed out the local post is fifth largest of Ohio's 410 VFW units. The membership campaign will wind up Sept. 10 with a free spaghetti dinner at the post home for paid-up members and men interested in joining the VFW, he said. He urged delinquent members to pay their dues to "make Post 66 100 per cent by May 22."

The post's regular meeting Tuesday night will follow a spaghetti dinner. James Rose is dinner chairman.

Ohioan Wounded By Police Bullets

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 68-year-old unemployed Cleveland man was in critical condition today with wounds from three police bullets.

Police said three policemen went to the apartment of Robert Woodward to question him Sunday in the shooting of Henry Frederick, 22, who also was in critical condition.

One patrolman, finding Woodward had locked himself in his bathroom and was refusing to come out, kicked in the door. Woodward fired at the officer, Robert C. Kruty, 30, striking his ear lobe.

Kruty dropped to the floor and emptied his revolver at Woodward. Three of Kruty's bullets hit the man—in the abdomen and in the upper part of each leg. A barrage of 11 bullets included four from another patrolman's revolver and one from the third officer's shotgun.

The investigation began when Frederick told police he had been shot in the chest in the E. 35th St. apartment after he refused to play cards with a man he called "Bob."

Pioneer Gets Louder Voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly two months after its launching, the Pioneer V space probe has a new voice.

Radio signals sent more than eight million miles switched on Sunday the 150-watt transmitter which had been silent since Pioneer's March 11 launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Until Sunday a five-watt transmitter had been sending back a wealth of detail on cosmic radiation, charged particle energies and magnetic field phenomena. More than 109 hours of broadcast data had been received.

But as distance increased, the smaller radio's signals became harder and harder to pick up, and the long-planned changeover was made as Pioneer reached a point 8,001,000 miles from the earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the new radio provided "a good, clear transmission, lasting about a minute and a half." But because it drains the space probe's batteries so much faster, it will be used only sparingly.

Local Government Debt For County Totals $15 Million

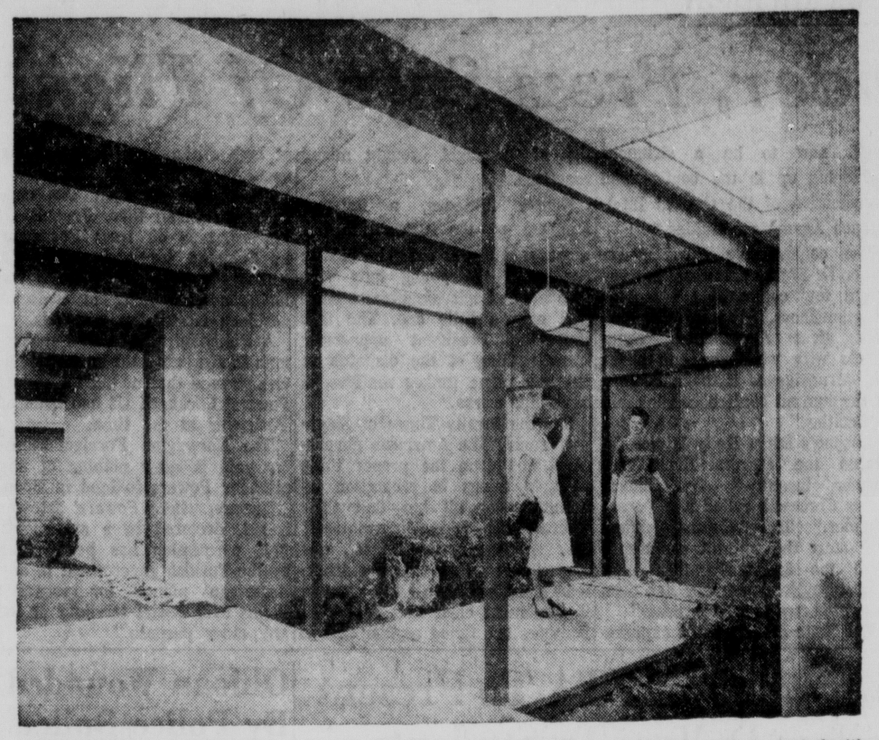

Local governments in Columbiana County showed debt totaling $15,696,828 as of Jan. 1, State Auditor James A. Rhodes said today in a report issued at Columbus.

Of the total, cities owed $4,860,873, Rhodes said. School district debt included: $5,658,000 in city districts, $2,368,640 in rural districts and $1,686,523 in exempted village districts. The county itself owed $238,000 while the combined debts of villages totaled $849,741 and townships owed a total of $35,049, Rhodes reported.

Statewide, local government debt rose more than $177 million last year to an all-time high of over $2 billion, the state auditor said. It averages out to $275 for every man, woman and child in Ohio, based on an estimated population of 9,732,558.

Making up the state debt of more than a half billion dollars are $352,555,000 in outstanding highway bonds; $79,500,000 in capital improvement bonds; $53,465,000 in Korean conflict bonus bonds, and $48,513,000 in World War II compensation bonds.

The Louvre in Paris has a portrait of King John the Good on a wooden panel with a plaster base. It was painted when King John was a captive in London at the beginning of the Hundred Years War.

INTERESTING APPROACH to this charming house is rendered by a drawbridge effect created with 2-by-4 Douglas fir decking and landscaped "moat." Fir-decked canopy is extension of carport roof, also continues into house forming interior ceilings. Exposed Douglas fir beams, painted charcoal for contrast against the naturally finished decking, extend through the house, support entire roof structure.

'Front Door' Can Take On New Glamour

PORTALND, Ore. — Is the entrance to your home a mere aperture labeled "front door?"

If so, you're missing a bet. One of the easiest and most effective ways of adding glamor to a home is with a strikingly designed entrance way.

But where to begin and how to do it? If you think in terms of developing everything lying between the property line and the front door as a part of the entrance and of using materials and designs which are natural and unaffected, your problems will be well in hand.

Try for unexpected effects, achieving them with simple designs. Since the front walk is the approach to the home, it is a key point and should be made as exciting as possible.

For instance, it could be designed to give the effect of a bridge connecting the sidewalk to the front door, and the yard or court developed to give the appearance of a moat or pool.

The moat is, of course, executed with landscaping. Shrubbery and ground cover of crushed rock are the primary ingredients, with intriguing pieces of driftwood "sculpture" utilized for special effects. Glass Japanese fishing floats might be set among the shrubbery for a dot of color.

The walk is built of Douglas fir 2-by-4s, spaced an eighth of an inch apart, and should be laid about 4 inches above ground level on treated fir runners or concrete piers to produce a bridge effect. The fir 2-by-4s can be left unstained to weather to a lovely silvery shade.

Extending a canopy from the front door out over a portion of the walkway is another trick often used by architects to emphasize the entrance way. Usually, the canopy is an extension of the roof overhang, and is easily built with post and beam construction.

If beams are a continuation of the home's structural roof beams and the wood decking on the underside of the canopy a continuation of the decking used for interior ceilings, a close rapport is established between the exterior entrance and the home's interior.

This bond can be heightened by the use of clerestory windows above the front door that disclose the extension of beams and decking from inside out.

Any number of simple tricks such as these can be used to put the accent on the entrance. It takes only some pen-and-paper planning sprinkled with imagination.

Tips Offered For Painting Vinyl Or Similar Covering

NEW YORK — So you're tired of the color of your vinyl or similar types of wall covering and want to change it, especially if the old wall covering is scratched, torn or stained?

There are two ways to do it. One is to put up new vinyl. But that's an expensive way and your color choice is relatively limited.

The most economical and practical way to change any wall color is with modern, quality paint, quick-drying and odorless, which comes in literally hundreds of different colors.

As for any paint job, the surface should be properly prepared and the correct paints selected.

Surface preparations is simple. The walls should be dusted with a dry mop or vacuumed. Any oil or grease stains should be removed with a detergent.

Experiments by the Scientific Section of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association indicate that use of the proper primer is essential for the satisfactory painting of these coverings. The tests show that oil or alkyd flat primers give the best results. It is advisable that this first or primer coat be brushed on.

After the primer coat has dried thoroughly, the top coat can be applied. The tests show that alkyd-based wall paints are best for vinyl wall coverings. You have your choice of flat, semi-gloss or gloss, with the selection being determined by the use to which the room is put.

If the old vinyl covering is a patterned one, a flat paint will be much better than the more shiny paints. Flat paints have the added advantage of reflecting light with less glare.

Generally, gloss or semi-gloss is reserved for kitchen and bathroom walls which are frequently washed or scrubbed.

Always ask your dealer to recommend the best primer and top coat for the job. And go to one who you know handles quality paints. You can be sure when you buy paints from a reputable, established dealer.

Avoid inferior products that are always on "sale", particularly those that are offered on a two-for-one basis. If the price of the paint sounds too good to be true, it probably is. The only thing you'll be buying will be disappointment.

532 Titles Issued For New Vehicles

LISBON — The Car Title Department of the Clerk of Courts' office issued titles for 532 new vehicles in April for the highest month since the title department went into operation. The former record was 527 in 1955, according to Clerk Carl L. Stacey. New vehicle valuation was $1,634,097.

A total of $8,000.89 was paid the county treasurer last month in fees collected in Common Pleas Court and the title department.

The department received $6,117.70 last month with $4,615.85 going to the county and $1,501.85 to the state.

The clerk's office paid the state treasurer $7,580.84 from the collection of sales and use tax and $72,291.58 from the collection of the dealers' tax. The county received $837.12 for its 1 per cent poundage fee.

Issued in April were 4,001 auto titles, 65 duplicate titles, 935 memorandums, 21 duplicate memorandums, 1,672 notations of liens, 1,254 cancelations of liens and 1,114 acknowledgments.

Truman Would Like 'To Turn Back Clock'

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman, in a television broadcast, acknowledged greetings on his 76th birthday Sunday.

"I wish I could persuade the clock to run backward and take off some of the years that have accumulated," the former President said.

"I have found that this cannot happen, so I am devoting my life to informing the young people about the greatest government in the history of the world, under which they live.

"I try to impress them with the fact that they did not inherit that great government without there having been a struggle and sacrifice by their forebears."

H. L. Mencken described a historian as "an unsuccessful novelist."

How Can I

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I repair a crack in a basement laundry tub?

A. First, widen the crack in your tub by opening it up with a cold chisel and hammer, then clean out the dirt, grease, and soap. Next, mix some litharge and glycerine to a putty just stiff enough to be worked into the crack easily with a putty knife. Let your repair patch dry for at least 24 hours before running any water into the tub.

Q. How can I tighten the handle of an umbrella that has become loosened?

A. Fill the hole in the handle with powdered resin, heat the rod, and press it firmly into the hole; then lay it aside for a while to set.

Q. What causes pie meringue to become tough?

A. Meringue will be tough and will shrink when set away to cool if baked in an oven that is too hot.

Council Meeting Set

LISBON — A proposed salary increase for the clerk of the water and sewer office will be discussed at a meeting of Village Council tonight at 7:30. Council also is expected to discuss new dump regulations, purchase of new fire-fighting equipment and new gas rates, according to Mayor Dean Stockman.

Local Government Debt For County Totals $15 Million

Local governments in Columbiana County showed debt totaling $15,696,828 as of Jan. 1, State Auditor James A. Rhodes said today in a report issued at Columbus.

Of the total, cities owed $4,860,873, Rhodes said. School district debt included: $5,658,000 in city districts, $2,368,640 in rural districts and $1,686,523 in exempted village districts. The county itself owed $238,000 while the combined debts of villages totaled $849,741 and townships owed a total of $35,049, Rhodes reported.

Statewide, local government debt rose more than $177 million last year to an all-time high of over $2 billion, the state auditor said. It averages out to $275 for every man, woman and child in Ohio, based on an estimated population of 9,732,558.

Making up the state debt of more than a half billion dollars are $352,555,000 in outstanding highway bonds; $79,500,000 in capital improvement bonds; $53,465,000 in Korean conflict bonus bonds, and $48,513,000 in World War II compensation bonds.

The Louvre in Paris has a portrait of King John the Good on a wooden panel with a plaster base. It was painted when King John was a captive in London at the beginning of the Hundred Years War.

INTERESTING APPROACH to this charming house is rendered by a drawbridge effect created with 2-by-4 Douglas fir decking and landscaped "moat." Fir-decked canopy is extension of carport roof, also continues into house forming interior ceilings. Exposed Douglas fir beams, painted charcoal for contrast against the naturally finished decking, extend through the house, support entire roof structure.

'Front Door' Can Take On New Glamour

PORTALND, Ore. — Is the entrance to your home a mere aperture labeled "front door?"

If so, you're missing a bet. One of the easiest and most effective ways of adding glamor to a home is with a strikingly designed entrance way.

But where to begin and how to do it? If you think in terms of developing everything lying between the property line and the front door as a part of the entrance and of using materials and designs which are natural and unaffected, your problems will be well in hand.

Try for unexpected effects, achieving them with simple designs. Since the front walk is the approach to the home, it is a key point and should be made as exciting as possible.

For instance, it could be designed to give the effect of a bridge connecting the sidewalk to the front door, and the yard or court developed to give the appearance of a moat or pool.

The moat is, of course, executed with landscaping. Shrubbery and ground cover of crushed rock are the primary ingredients, with intriguing pieces of driftwood "sculpture" utilized for special effects. Glass Japanese fishing floats might be set among the shrubbery for a dot of color.

The walk is built of Douglas fir 2-by-4s, spaced an eighth of an inch apart, and should be laid about 4 inches above ground level on treated fir runners or concrete piers to produce a bridge effect. The fir 2-by-4s can be left unstained to weather to a lovely silvery shade.

Extending a canopy from the front door out over a portion of the walkway is another trick often used by architects to emphasize the entrance way. Usually, the canopy is an extension of the roof overhang, and is easily built with post and beam construction.

If beams are a continuation of the home's structural roof beams and the wood decking on the underside of the canopy a continuation of the decking used for interior ceilings, a close rapport is established between the exterior entrance and the home's interior.

This bond can be heightened by the use of clerestory windows above the front door that disclose the extension of beams and decking from inside out.

Any number of simple tricks such as these can be used to put the accent on the entrance. It takes only some pen-and-paper planning sprinkled with imagination.

Plaster Work Steps Offered

There is little doubt but that the average defect in plaster work comes around wall openings such as doors and window frames.

This is caused by the fact that in spite of double framing there is always some degree of weakness in any wall where an opening is cut through. Particularly around window frames where there has been a leak, the plaster is very liable to crack, bulge and frequently have to be removed.

For a job of this kind, the only tool required is a mason's steel trowel or a large trowel of the ordinary pointed variety, plus a bag of prepared patching plaster which can be found in practically any hardware store.

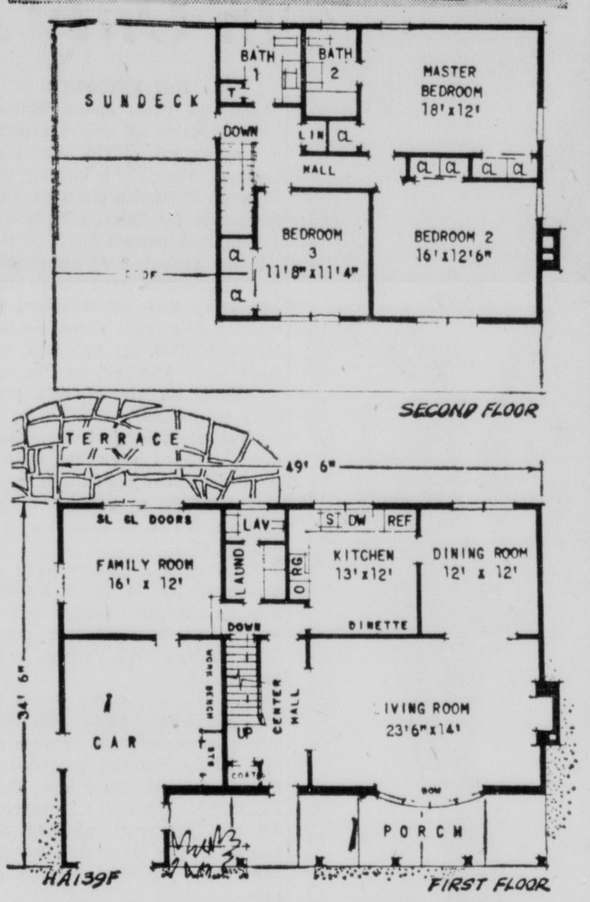

In repairing a defect of this kind, the first step is to take a sharp knife and cut out the area which is either cracked or loose. In all cases the home owner will find either wood or metal lath underneath the plaster.

The opening should be well brushed out and well wetted so that the dry edges will not absorb all of the water out of the new patch and cause it to shrink. When the opening is prepared, the paster should be mixed and troweled on evenly, at the same time pressing it well into the lath so that it will secure a good grip.

The final finished troweling will be improved if the face of the trowel is completely clean and has been dipped lightly in water. The work always should be done so that the final strokes are toward the edges of the hole. If there is any roughness after the new paster has set up, it can be evened off by wrapping a piece of fine sandpaper around a block of wood and sanding down the uneven portions.

It is not advisable to attempt to paint over fresh plaster. It should be allowed to dry for at least two weeks. After this it should be sized with shellac so that any paint or wallpaper will adhere properly.

BRIGHT AND SUNNY: This 2-story design features three bedrooms, two baths, family room and sundeck. There are 907 square feet on the first floor, excluding family room, and the second floor covers 924 square feet. The architect is Alan Wood Fraser, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N. Y., and the plan is HA 139F.

Damage Set At $50,000 In Fire At Lakewood

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fire in a Lakewood store early today caused damage estimated by fire officials at $50,000.

Because of heavy smoke, firemen wore gas masks as they fought the blaze at the P & J Sewing and Fabric Center, a two-story brick building. Traffic on busy Detroit Avenue was disrupted for a short time.

Fire Chief Jay V. Redmond said the blaze apparently started in electrical wiring in the basement.

A furniture store and bowling lanes flanking the center received smoke and water damage.

If Your Chimney Leaks, Don't Stint On Repairs

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Written For Bell Syndicate

Damp spots on the ceiling or actual drips falling on furniture or floor are often mistaken for a leaking roof.

Experience has shown that leaks seldom appear in the shingle area of a roof, but usually around a chimney flashing, a vent pipe or other opening in a roof surface.

When such an event takes place and the home owner goes to the attic to investigate, the chances are that he will find water dripping down the face of the chimney.

This usually means that the flashing is defective because of rusting out or improper installation when the house was built. The cure for this condition is to coat the entire flashing with a good, non-hardening roof cement, carrying the cement up on the brick work for one or two courses higher than the flashing.

Enough cement to do a big chimney costs little, so nothing is to be gained by stinting on material. The coat should be about a quarter - inch thick and troweled out as smooth as possible.

There are times, of course, when the brick work of the chimney is poor. Mortar joints are skimpy or the mortar itself a bad mix. In this case the chimney will leak even though the flashing is sound.

The cure for this condition is to point up the loose or fallen - out joints with patching cement. After this has set up properly, the entire exposed chimney should be given a coat of good colorless water proofing. If the chimney has been painted, loose paint should be brushed off with a wire brush and then the surface repainted. Painted chimneys are known to leak less and to stand up under severe weather far better than the plain masonry jobs. The best type of paint is a good lead house paint.

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Oberlin College's mock Democratic political convention, which stayed with Stevenson in 1956, this year showed confidence in Kennedy.

Other third-ballot results:

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, 82; Sen. Richard B. Russell, 56; Sen. Hubert Humphrey, 2, and Sen. Stuart Symington, 1.

Right Attic Ventilation Adds To Home Comforts

(Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

More than half of the houses which have been built during the last decade have brought complaints from the owners for one reason or the other.

Many of the complaints are about the attic. And it seems that the lower the pitch of the roof, the more the complaint. It is a fact that the builders of small houses with very little roof pitch seem to have the idea that because of the small attic space, little or no ventilation is required. On the contrary, the low - roofed house with the shallow attic is exactly the one that needs good ventilation.

An unventilated or badly - ventilated attic causes excess humidity in the house, excessive heat in the summer and a generally uncomfortable atmosphere.

It is not much of a job to install adequate louvers or ventilators in the gables of a house. These are readily available in almost any lumber yard and can be found in several different designs.

One at each end of an attic will make a world of difference in the comfort of any home. In order to conserve heat during the winter months, a plywood batten can be made which will set over the louvers. One of the best building codes says that louvers or ventilators must be at least 1-100th of the attic area.

In selecting louvers, the owner of a house must make sure that they are screened to prevent wasps, bees, hornets, squirrels or other small animals from entering through them.

Great care must be exercised in installing the louvers. While most of them have flanges which make the attachment to the house quite easy, the joint around the unit must be well caulked to prevent rain from penetrating.

Hospital Dedicated

CINCINNATI (AP)—Officials of Bethesda Hospital dedicated the new 85-bed hospital pavilion Sunday—more than a year after it was finished. The hospital started using it as soon as builders finished in December, 1958, and a dedication was put off until additional work on the seventh floor of the old main hospital building was completed recently. Bethesda now has capacity for 351 patients.

Plaster Work Steps Offered

There is little doubt but that the average defect in plaster work comes around wall openings such as doors and window frames.

This is caused by the fact that in spite of double framing there is always some degree of weakness in any wall where an opening is cut through. Particularly around window frames where there has been a leak, the plaster is very liable to crack, bulge and frequently have to be removed.

For a job of this kind, the only tool required is a mason's steel trowel or a large trowel of the ordinary pointed variety, plus a bag of prepared patching plaster which can be found in practically any hardware store.

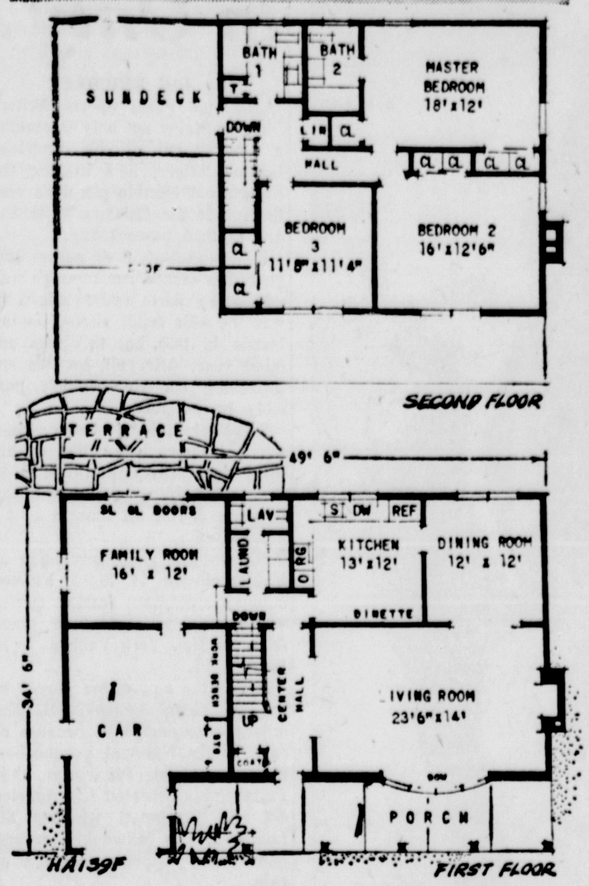

In repairing a defect of this kind, the first step is to take a sharp knife and cut out the area which is either cracked or loose. In all cases the home owner will find either wood or metal lath underneath the plaster.

The opening should be well brushed out and well wetted so that the dry edges will not absorb all of the water out of the new patch and cause it to shrink. When the opening is prepared, the paster should be mixed and troweled on evenly, at the same time pressing it well into the lath so that it will secure a good grip.

The final finished troweling will be improved if the face of the trowel is completely clean and has been dipped lightly in water. The work always should be done so that the final strokes are toward the edges of the hole. If there is any roughness after the new paster has set up, it can be evened off by wrapping a piece of fine sandpaper around a block of wood and sanding down the uneven portions.

It is not advisable to attempt to paint over fresh plaster. It should be allowed to dry for at least two weeks. After this it should be sized with shellac so that any paint or wallpaper will adhere properly.

BRIGHT AND SUNNY: This 2-story design features three bedrooms, two baths, family room and sundeck. There are 907 square feet on the first floor, excluding family room, and the second floor covers 924 square feet. The architect is Alan Wood Fraser, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N. Y., and the plan is HA 139F.

Damage Set At $50,000 In Fire At Lakewood

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fire in a Lakewood store early today caused damage estimated by fire officials at $50,000.

Because of heavy smoke, firemen wore gas masks as they fought the blaze at the P & J Sewing and Fabric Center, a two-story brick building. Traffic on busy Detroit Avenue was disrupted for a short time.

Fire Chief Jay V. Redmond said the blaze apparently started in electrical wiring in the basement.

A furniture store and bowling lanes flanking the center received smoke and water damage.

If Your Chimney Leaks, Don't Stint On Repairs

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Giants Sweep To First Place By Clobbering Pirates, 13-1

Reds Win Seventh In Row

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Former bonus baby Mike McCormick, youngest of the Giants, is the new ace of San Francisco's pitching staff.

The 21-year-old unbeaten southpaw Sunday pitched the Giants into undisputed first place with a 13-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pasadena youngster, who now makes his home in San Mateo, Calif., tamed the Pirates with six hits for his fourth victory.

The triumph gave the Giants a sweep of the three-game series with Pittsburgh and boosted them to a full game lead over the Pirates.

In other National League games, Cincinnati won its seventh straight with a 5-2 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 4-2. Rain forced postponement of the Milwaukee-Chicago game.

Rain also wiped out all but the Chicago - New York game in the American League. The White Sox won 8-3 in 10 innings, wresting first place from the Yankees.

This is only McCormick's fourth full season in the majors. Mike won 12 and lost 16 last year. In three of his defeats, his teammates failed to get him a run.

Cal McLish won his second game and outfielder Vada Pinson made his first homer of the year a grand-slammer as Cincinnati swept the three-game series with the Cards. St. Louis now has lost all eight of its road games. Larry Jackson lost his fourth against one victory.

Rookie catcher Jim Coker hit a two-on homer to climax a four-run sixth inning and give the Phillies the rubber of the three-game set with the Dodgers. Jack Meyer, with the help of Dick Farrell, registered his second victory. Ed Rakow was the loser.

Owner Almost Replaced Outspoken Bill Hartack

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) — Bill Hartack, horse racing's No. 1 controversial figure, almost blew his chance to ride Venetian Way to victory in the 86th Kentucky Derby.

Vic Sovinski, who trains Venetian Way for Isaac Blumberg of Chicago, revealed today that as late as last Friday he was toying with the idea of replacing Hartack.

"I knew I could get Eddie Arcaro," said the 52-year-old exbaker from Kankakee, Ill., as he talked of Venetian's 3½ length triumph over Bally Ache in last Saturday's $158,950 classic for 3-year-olds at Churchill Downs and the renewal of their rivalry in the $100,000 Added Preakness at Pimlico May 21.

"But I finally decided to stick with Hartack although I'll admit, that I, together with many others, don't approve of his outspoken attitude. And I am glad I did. He obeyed my instructions to the letter. He'll be up on Venetian Way again in the Preakness."

Hartack irked Sovinski after a 7-furlong prep race April 30 in which Bally Ache beat Venetian Way by more than three lengths.

"I told him to give Venetian Way a good workout for an additional quarter-mile," said Sovinski. "He did but was standing up in the saddle all the way. When I want a horse to get a tough workout, I want the boy to sit in the saddle and I told Hartack so."

Sovinski said his only instruction to Hartack for the derby was to lay back in the third or fourth going down the back stretch and then to make his move.

How well this worked is shown by the results. Venetian Way moved into second place with a little more than a half-mile to go, caught the pace-setting Bally Ache and Bob Ussery rounding the last big turn, went ahead of Leonard Fruchtman's hard-hitting colt nearing the quarter-pole and then widened his margin in the long drive for the finish line.

"I rode him like somebody was on my tail all the way," said Hartack.

Although Bally Ache was no match for Venetian Way as he kept intact his record of being in the money in all of his 24 starts except the first, he easily defeated Victoria Park for second money of $25,000.

The victory was worth $114,850 in cash alone and boosted Venetian Way's total bankroll for 15 races to $280,127.

Venetian Way and Bally Ache leave Tuesday for Baltimore and the Preakness. Victoria Park, Tompion and ninth place Divine Comedy also are expected to start in the second jewel of racing's triple crown.

Gus Triandos Due Surgery On His Thumb

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are shopping for a replacement for catcher Gus Triandos who will submit to surgery Wednesday on a damaged thumb.

The Orioles have Joe Ginsberg and Clint Courtney behind Triandos, but Courtney is recuperating from a serious infection of an index finger.

Gene Green, an outfielder - catcher acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals last winter, is on Baltimore's farm club at Miami, but the Orioles reportedly are seeking a receiver from another major league club.

The Orioles announced Sunday that Triandos is being put on the 30-day disabled list. Dr. Erwin Mayer, team physician, said the 29-year-old catcher should be able to play "within three or four weeks."

It is hoped hte surgery will relieve a nerve restriction which developed in Triandos' right thumb after he was struck on the back of the hand by a foul tip last Aug. 1.

Triandos skidded to a .216 batting average after the injury last season and is hitting only .150 this year. He hit 23 homers before the injury last year but has hit only two since.

Major League Stars

Batting — Minnie Minoso, White Sox — Hit the first Chicago homer in Yankee Stadium in two years, added two singles and scored twice as the White Sox wrested first place from the Yankees 8-3 in 10 innings.

Pitching — Mike McCormick, Giants — Pitched a six-hitter for his fourth victory without a defeat as the Giants swept the three-game series from Pittsburgh, 13-1, to gain undisputed possession of first place.

Sox Trip Yankees In Only AL Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gerry Staley not only is making a monkey out of the American League hitters, he's making the experts eat humble pie. He's also the reason the Chicago White Sox are in first place today.

Staley pitched in 67 games last year. His earned run average was 2.25. The experts acknowledged he was the best relief pitcher in the league in 1959 but this was another year. After all, he was approaching 40. He couldn't possibly be as good.

Surprise! Staley is better. Manager Al Lopez has called on his aged right arm eight times in 18 games and the opposition still has to score a run off him in 17 2-3 innings.

Staley gave a demonstration of his excellence to 19,505 Yankee stadium spectators Sunday as the White Sox wrested first place from the New York Yankees in 10 innings, 8-3.

It was the only game played in the American League. All the others were postponed because of rain. In the National League San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 13-1, Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 4-2 and Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 5-2. The Milwaukee-Chicago game was postponed because of rain.

Barber Wins Golf Tourney At Las Vegas

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —The golfing clan headed for Texas today and the National Invitational at Fort Worth. And the happiest of them all was Jerry Barber.

The little Los Angeles veteran walked away from the field to win the $42,000 Tournament of Champions. And since the Barbers have five youngsters, the $10,000 Jerry won was quite a Mother's Day present for his wife Lucille.

Barber, at 44 and 5-foot-5 the oldest and smallest in the field, went into the final round at the Desert Inn Country Club with a shaky two-stroke lead over Julius Boros and three in front of Jay Hebert.

Jerry is a club pro and doesn't play as much tournament golf as he used to. But he soon dispelled any idea that he might crack under pressure.

He birdied the first hole and went on to shoot a 33-34—67 for the par 36-36—72 test and won up with a 72-hole score of 268. The total was seven shots better than the previous low here — 275 by Stan Leonard in 1958.

It was also 20 strokes below par for the distance.

The final round was something of a 21-ring circus involving the 21 players.

There was Barber turning almost certain bogeys into birdies, and there was Hebert out-gunning Boros in the battle for the runner-up $5,000 purse.

Hebert settled the issue on the 15th when he hit a shot from the center of the fairways over a towering tree. It stopped 30 inches from the pin and led to an eagle three.

Hebert finished with his fourth consecutive 68 and 272, and Boros a 71 for 274 and $4,000. U.S. Open champion Billy Casper Jr. shot a 70 and Arnold Palmer a 69 to tie at 276, one stroke behind Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., who had a 68.

Wiffi Smith Captures Tourney Third Time

SPARTANBURG, N. C. (AP)— "I think I'll take this course home and put it in my back yard."

That was what Wiffi Smith exultantly remarked after she won the Peach Blossom Women's Golf Tournament here Saturday for the third straight time.

Beverly Hanson of Palm Desert, Calif., was second with 214. Her share was $869.50.

Bud Manes Is Appointed Head Cage Coach At Thiel

Charles H. "Bud" Manes, a former East Liverpool athlete, has been named head basketball coach at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa.

Manes, who is 29, becomes one of the youngest coaches in the school's history.

The announcement of his appointment was made today. He replaces Joseph Werlinich, who resigned to accept another position at the school.

Manes was moved up from freshman basketball. He also is Thiel's assistant football coach, head track coach and director of the intramural program.

As freshman coach last season his team had the finest frosh mark in the past 30 years. They won eight games while losing only three.

He never played football or basketball at East Liverpool, but following service, where he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Army, Manes enrolled at Thiel, where he starred in both sports.

BUD MANES
Thiel's New Cage Coach.

His only connection with football at East Liverpool High School was in the capacity as manager, but he was an outstanding wrestler and won several letters in track.

He went on to become one of the top scorers in football at Thiel and was co-captain of the basketball squad for two years.

Manes made the big step into the college ranks after only one year of high school coaching experience. He coached basketball one year at Middlefield, Ohio.

Only a year ago, Manes was named to the athletic staff at Thiel College.

The Greenville school honored Manes when he was graduated in 1958 by naming him winner of the gold letter award which is presented to the top athlete at the school.

Manes is married and has two boys. He is the son of Mrs. Gaynel Hull, 503 Oakland Ave.

Tribe's Young Hurlers Will Face Stern Test

BOSTON (AP)—In the next nine days the Cleveland Indians' youthful pitching staff faces a stern test.

After today's game against the Boston Red Sox, the Tribe goes to New York for three games, then returns home for a four-game set with the Chicago White Sox, followed by two more games with the Yankees.

In that period Manager Joe Gordon will be thinking about which pitchers to cut from the 28-player squad.

"We've got to evaluate our pitching," Gordon said. "We have to cut down in about 10 days, and we have to decide who to keep and who to let go."

Of the 12 pitchers on the staff, probably two will be sent out by May 18.

Four are sure to stay — Gary Bell, Wynn Hawkins, Barry Latman and Jim Perry.

Gordon had expected to get a look at Bob Tiefenauer Sunday, but the game scheduled with Boston was rained out. The manager wasn't disappointed, however. "We needed a day off," he said. "We didn't have one for 10 days and won't get another until next week unless it should rain again.

Gordon said he had a hunch Tiefenauer, a relief specialist most of his career, will be a good starting pitcher. "He has to warm up a little longer because he still isn't real strong. When he starts, he can get good and warm."

The 30 - year - old knuckleballer was out last year with a sore arm and has not been effective so far in relief.

Giants Sweep To First Place By Clobbering Pirates, 13-1

Reds Win Seventh In Row

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Former bonus baby Mike McCormick, youngest of the Giants, is the new ace of San Francisco's pitching staff.

The 21-year-old unbeaten southpaw Sunday pitched the Giants into undisputed first place with a 13-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pasadena youngster, who now makes his home in San Mateo, Calif., tamed the Pirates with six hits for his fourth victory.

The triumph gave the Giants a sweep of the three-game series with Pittsburgh and boosted them to a full game lead over the Pirates.

In other National League games, Cincinnati won its seventh straight with a 5-2 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 4-2. Rain forced postponement of the Milwaukee-Chicago game.

Rain also wiped out all but the Chicago - New York game in the American League. The White Sox won 8-3 in 10 innings, wresting first place from the Yankees.

This is only McCormick's fourth full season in the majors. Mike won 12 and lost 16 last year. In three of his defeats, his teammates failed to get him a run.

Cal McLish won his second game and outfielder Vada Pinson made his first homer of the year a grand-slammer as Cincinnati swept the three-game series with the Cards. St. Louis now has lost all eight of its road games. Larry Jackson lost his fourth against one victory.

Rookie catcher Jim Coker hit a two-on homer to climax a four-run sixth inning and give the Phillies the rubber of the three-game set with the Dodgers. Jack Meyer, with the help of Dick Farrell, registered his second victory. Ed Rakow was the loser.

Barber Wins Golf Tourney At Las Vegas

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —The golfing clan headed for Texas today and the National Invitational at Fort Worth. And the happiest of them all was Jerry Barber.

The little Los Angeles veteran walked away from the field to win the $42,000 Tournament of Champions. And since the Barbers have five youngsters, the $10,000 Jerry won was quite a Mother's Day present for his wife Lucille.

Barber, at 44 and 5-foot-5 the oldest and smallest in the field, went into the final round at the Desert Inn Country Club with a shaky two-stroke lead over Julius Boros and three in front of Jay Hebert.

Jerry is a club pro and doesn't play as much tournament golf as he used to. But he soon dispelled any idea that he might crack under pressure.

He birdied the first hole and went on to shoot a 33-34—67 for the par 36-36—72 test and won up with a 72-hole score of 268. The total was seven shots better than the previous low here — 275 by Stan Leonard in 1958.

It was also 20 strokes below par for the distance.

The final round was something of a 21-ring circus involving the 21 players.

There was Barber turning almost certain bogeys into birdies, and there was Hebert out-gunning Boros in the battle for the runner-up $5,000 purse.

Hebert settled the issue on the 15th when he hit a shot from the center of the fairways over a towering tree. It stopped 30 inches from the pin and led to an eagle three.

Hebert finished with his fourth consecutive 68 and 272, and Boros a 71 for 274 and $4,000. U.S. Open champion Billy Casper Jr. shot a 70 and Arnold Palmer a 69 to tie at 276, one stroke behind Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., who had a 68.

Wiffi Smith Captures Tourney Third Time

SPARTANBURG, N. C. (AP)— "I think I'll take this course home and put it in my back yard."

That was what Wiffi Smith exultantly remarked after she won the Peach Blossom Women's Golf Tournament here Saturday for the third straight time.

Wiffi, of St. Clair, Mich., wound up the 54-hole event with 212, one stroke higher than her tournament record here last year. She won $997.50.

Beverly Hanson of Palm Desert, Calif., was second with 214. Her share was $869.50.

Bud Manes Is Appointed Head Cage Coach At Thiel

Charles H. "Bud" Manes, a former East Liverpool athlete, has been named head basketball coach at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa.

Manes, who is 29, becomes one of the youngest coaches in the school's history.

The announcement of his appointment was made today. He replaces Joseph Werlinich, who resigned to accept another position at the school.

Manes was moved up from freshman basketball. He also is Thiel's assistant football coach, head track coach and director of the intramural program.

As freshman coach last season his team had the finest frosh mark in the past 30 years. They won eight games while losing only three.

He never played football or basketball at East Liverpool, but following service, where he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Army, Manes enrolled at Thiel, where he starred in both sports.

BUD MANES
Thiel's New Cage Coach.

His only connection with football at East Liverpool High School was in the capacity as manager, but he was an outstanding wrestler and won several letters in track.

He went on to become one of the top scorers in football at Thiel and was co-captain of the basketball squad for two years.

Manes made the big step into the college ranks after only one year of high school coaching experience. He coached basketball one year at Middlefield, Ohio.

Only a year ago, Manes was named to the athletic staff at Thiel College.

The Greenville school honored Manes when he was graduated in 1958 by naming him winner of the gold letter award which is presented to the top athlete at the school.

Manes is married and has two boys. He is the son of Mrs. Gaynel Hull, 503 Oakland Ave.

Tribe's Young Hurlers Will Face Stern Test

BOSTON (AP)—In the next nine days the Cleveland Indians' youthful pitching staff faces a stern test.

After today's game against the Boston Red Sox, the Tribe goes to New York for three games, then returns home for a four-game set with the Chicago White Sox, followed by two more games with the Yankees.

In that period Manager Joe Gordon will be thinking about which pitchers to cut from the 28-player squad.

"We've got to evaluate our pitching," Gordon said. "We have to cut down in about 10 days, and we have to decide who to keep and who to let go."

Of the 12 pitchers on the staff, probably two will be sent out by May 18.

Four are sure to stay — Gary Bell, Wynn Hawkins, Barry Latman and Jim Perry.

Gordon had expected to get a look at Bob Tiefenauer Sunday, but the game scheduled with Boston was rained out. The manager wasn't disappointed, however. "We needed a day off," he said. "We didn't have one for 10 days and won't get another until next week unless it should rain again.

Gordon said he had a hunch Tiefenauer, a relief specialist most of his career, will be a good starting pitcher. "He has to warm up a little longer because he still isn't real strong. When he starts, he can get good and warm."

The 30 - year - old knuckleballer was out last year with a sore arm and has not been effective so far in relief.

Board Pushes Official Tally

The official canvass of the results in Tuesday's primaries will not be completed until tonight, the County Election Board said today.

Terming it "The worst we've ever had," Frank R. O'Hanlon said the canvass is delaying other work in the office. Because election officials worked all night on the unofficial figures, the board did not start the canvass until Thursday, O'Hanlon explained.

The canvass is complicated by the large number of candidates and the fact that double ballots were used for each party, he added. When the canvass is completed, the results will be certified to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Meanwhile, the first of a flood of expense statements are being received from candidates for district and county candidates, candidates for party precinct committeemen and from organizations and committees which supported any candidate or tax levy.

Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine, who was renominated by Republicans for county commissioner, reported expenses of $295.

Donald W. Elliott of Rogers, unopposed for the GOP nomination for state senator, said he spent $4.

Don R. Gosney, elected a delegate to the Democratic national convention, listed no expenses while Probate Judge Louis Tobin and Dr. William A. Kolozsi, county coroner, both unopposed for re-election, also listed no expenses.

No Talks Planned In Utility Walkout

A strike of maintenance workers against the Ohio Valley Gas Co. in East Liverpool and Steubenville entered its ninth day today with no negotiations underway.

Thirty-six union employes here and 52 others in Steubenville have been on strike since April 30 after expiration of their contract.

The situation also remains "status quo" in Western Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia, where maintenance workers have struck the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. The strike zone against the two gas utilities extends from Pittsburgh to New Martinsville in the Ohio River area.

In the strike against Ohio Valley Gas Co., both sides have agreed to have a federal conciliator arrange negotiations for a new contract. Neither had been contacted today.

Local supervisors and workers met with Ohio Valley Gas Co. officials this morning to arrange a schedule for work in case of emergency. Gas service continues normal but supervisory personel are handling some duties of the striking outside workers.

2 Youths Repent, Admit Car Theft

Two Chester area youths, 16, and 17, who confessed to taking an auto, ditching it then returning it over the weekend, are slated to be turned over to Hancock County juvenile authorities.

The boys admitted taking a 1954 sedan of Larry E. Logston of 3rd St. Ext. Saturday night from Carolina Ave. between 1st and 2nd St., where he had parked it while going to work.

Driving the auto out along Middle Run Rd., they drove it into a ditch, causing some $150 damage, late Saturday night. Later, they decided to retrieve it, and drove it back into Chester, parking it in Church Alley, between 1st and 2nd St. and then went to Logston, telling of the escapade.

Police Chief Harold Davis, who investigated Logston's stolen car report filed early yesterday morning when he found the car taken, said the pair will be turned over to county authorities.

Power In Beaver Area Disrupted By Landslide

Many homes in Ohio Township, Cooks Ferry and Brighton and Center Townships were without electricity for about an hour and a half Sunday, beginning at 4:15 p. m.

The Duquesne Light Co. at Rochester reported the failure was caused by a landslide between Potter and Center Townships which caused trees to fall onto the transmission line. The trees were cut away to restore service. Midland, on another circuit, was not affected, the company said.

Oscar Wilde, annoyed at women, retorted: "No woman should have a memory. Memory in a woman is the beginning of dowdiness."

Top Bowlers Bite The Dust

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The finals of the 10th annual American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament were in full swing today without the services of many of bowling's top names.

Among those eliminated from the original qualifying field of 432 were such tenpin staples as Don Carter, Bill Lillard, Harry Smith, Billy Welu and Al Savas of St. Louis.

Detroit sharpshooters Joe Joseph, Buzz Fazio and Tony Lindemann also were among the missing.

Ben Becker, an unheralded bowler from Los Angeles, walked off with qualifying honors with an eight-game total of 1757 Sunday night while these top - ranking stars were floundering.

The top 52 scorers in the qualifying field plus four seeded stars and eight survivors from a special group of state all - events champions are in the finals.

Becker won his first finals match by outpinning 18-year-old Ron Winger 863 to 766. Winger, also from Los Angeles, finished second in the qualifying and was selected by lot to face Becker.

Don Ellis of Chicago led scoring in the first round of the double-elimination finals when he crushed Bob Kwolek of Detroit 925 to 717 in four games.

Gerry Schmidt of Fort Wayne, Ind., drubbed Dick Weber of St. Louis 920 to 746.

Ed Lubanski of Detroit, exempt from qualifying because he won the ABC all-events last year, was dumped into the losers bracket after Bill Schlicker of Detroit edged him 813 to 808.

Dick Hoover of St. Louis, another seeded star, lost to Jim Rutkowski of Detroit 796 to 754.

The two remaining seeded bowlers, Steve Nagy and Tom Hennessy of St. Louis, won their initial matches.

By midnight tonight 40 bowlers will have been eliminated. The tournament ends Wednesday night.

Rain And Cold Hit Northeast

By The Associated Press

More rain and cold put a damp chill over the northeast part of the country today and temperatures dropped to unseasonal levels in most of the South.

Heaviest rainfall was in central Pennsylvania, with more than five inches in some areas and falls of three and four inches in several cities. Heavy rains also drenched Maryland, causing some flooding in western sections.

The cold air dipped as far south as the southern tip of Florida. The 61-degree reading in Miami was near the record low for the date.

Temperatures were 12 to 18 degrees lower than Sunday morning from western New York southward through Pennsylvania and the coastal states to southern Florida. Readings were mostly in the 40s and 50s.

It was chilly in the upper Great Lakes, Illinois and Indiana and the extreme northern Rockies, with temperatures in the 30s.

Rain was indicated along the West Coast from central California northward into western Washington.

Cleveland Back Sparkles At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland's Tom Matte, running for two touchdowns and passing for another, led the Scarlet or first team to a 20-0 victory over the Whites in a regulation intrasquad game winding up Ohio State's spring football drills Saturday.

Matte scored on a 10-yard rollout around left end and on an 11-yard run around right end, and also threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to end Paul Martin of Canton. He compiled 112 yards on 29 carries—about half the number of times the Scarlets ran the ball.

The Clevelander also completed five of 10 passes for 49 yards, and a 22-yarder was nullified by a penalty.

The game was played on a rain-swept field.

Board Pushes Official Tally

The official canvass of the results in Tuesday's primaries will not be completed until tonight, the County Election Board said today.

Terming it "The worst we've ever had," Frank R. O'Hanlon said the canvass is delaying other work in the office. Because election officials worked all night on the unofficial figures, the board did not start the canvass until Thursday, O'Hanlon explained.

The canvass is complicated by the large number of candidates and the fact that double ballots were used for each party, he added. When the canvass is completed, the results will be certified to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Meanwhile, the first of a flood of expense statements are being received from candidates for district and county candidates, candidates for party precinct committeemen and from organizations and committees which supported any candidate or tax levy.

Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine, who was renominated by Republicans for county commissioner, reported expenses of $295.

Donald W. Elliott of Rogers, unopposed for the GOP nomination for state senator, said he spent $4.

Don R. Gosney, elected a delegate to the Democratic national convention, listed no expenses while Probate Judge Louis Tobin and Dr. William A. Kolozsi, county coroner, both unopposed for re-election, also listed no expenses.

No Talks Planned In Utility Walkout

A strike of maintenance workers against the Ohio Valley Gas Co. in East Liverpool and Steubenville entered its ninth day today with no negotiations underway.

Thirty-six union employes here and 52 others in Steubenville have been on strike since April 30 after expiration of their contract.

The situation also remains "status quo" in Western Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia, where maintenance workers have struck the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. The strike zone against the two gas utilities extends from Pittsburgh to New Martinsville in the Ohio River area.

In the strike against Ohio Valley Gas Co., both sides have agreed to have a federal conciliator arrange negotiations for a new contract. Neither had been contacted today.

Local supervisors and workers met with Ohio Valley Gas Co. officials this morning to arrange a schedule for work in case of emergency. Gas service continues normal but supervisory personel are handling some duties of the striking outside workers.

2 Youths Repent, Admit Car Theft

Two Chester area youths, 16, and 17, who confessed to taking an auto, ditching it then returning it over the weekend, are slated to be turned over to Hancock County juvenile authorities.

The boys admitted taking a 1954 sedan of Larry E. Logston of 3rd St. Ext. Saturday night from Carolina Ave. between 1st and 2nd St., where he had parked it while going to work.

Driving the auto out along Middle Run Rd., they drove it into a ditch, causing some $150 damage, late Saturday night. Later, they decided to retrieve it, and drove it back into Chester, parking it in Church Alley, between 1st and 2nd St. and then went to Logston, telling of the escapade.

Police Chief Harold Davis, who investigated Logston's stolen car report filed early yesterday morning when he found the car taken, said the pair will be turned over to county authorities.

Power In Beaver Area Disrupted By Landslide

Many homes in Ohio Township, Cooks Ferry and Brighton and Center Townships were without electricity for about an hour and a half Sunday, beginning at 4:15 p. m.

The Duquesne Light Co. at Rochester reported the failure was caused by a landslide between Potter and Center Townships which caused trees to fall onto the transmission line. The trees were cut away to restore service. Midland, on another circuit, was not affected, the company said.

Oscar Wilde, annoyed at women, retorted: "No woman should have a memory. Memory in a woman is the beginning of dowdiness."

Top Bowlers Bite The Dust

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The finals of the 10th annual American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament were in full swing today without the services of many of bowling's top names.

The top 52 scorers in the qualifying field plus four seeded stars and eight survivors from a special group of state all - events champions are in the finals.

Becker won his first finals match by outpinning 18-year-old Ron Winger 863 to 766. Winger, also from Los Angeles, finished second in the qualifying and was selected by lot to face Becker.

Don Ellis of Chicago led scoring in the first round of the double-elimination finals when he crushed Bob Kwolek of Detroit 925 to 717 in four games.

Gerry Schmidt of Fort Wayne, Ind., drubbed Dick Weber of St. Louis 920 to 746.

The two remaining seeded bowlers, Steve Nagy and Tom Hennessy of St. Louis, won their initial matches.

Rain And Cold Hit Northeast

By The Associated Press

More rain and cold put a damp chill over the northeast part of the country today and temperatures dropped to unseasonal levels in most of the South.

Heaviest rainfall was in central Pennsylvania, with more than five inches in some areas and falls of three and four inches in several cities. Heavy rains also drenched Maryland, causing some flooding in western sections.

Rain fell over much of the upper Ohio Valley and Great Lakes region Sunday night but appeared diminishing. Snow fell over the weekend in parts of Wisconsin, Michigan, Montana and Idaho, measuring up to 12 inches in Ironwood, Mich.

The cold air dipped as far south as the southern tip of Florida. The 61-degree reading in Miami was near the record low for the date.

Temperatures were 12 to 18 degrees lower than Sunday morning from western New York southward through Pennsylvania and the coastal states to southern Florida. Readings were mostly in the 40s and 50s.

It was chilly in the upper Great Lakes, Illinois and Indiana and the extreme northern Rockies, with temperatures in the 30s.

Rain was indicated along the West Coast from central California northward into western Washington.

WEIRTON — Wade E. Backus, 28, of Weirton, injured in a head-on collision at 1:25 a. m. Saturday in Brooke County, was listed in "fair" condition today at the Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville.

Backus previously was reported in "very critical" condition with a possible fractured skull, internal injuries and possible cerebral hemorrage suffered in the crash on State Route 2 near the Market St. Bridge.

Mishap Hurts 2 At Pughtown

Two young Steubenville men were injured when their convertible veered out of control on rain-slicked State Route 2 near Pughtown and plunged over a hillside early today.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported the driver, John Gauker, 19, said he was driving too fast for conditions when he approached a curve and crashed over the embankment.

The mishap occurred at 2:15 a. m. near the Pughtown Grange of the West Virginia State Road Commission.

Gauker is in "satisfactory" condition today in Weirton General Hospital with multiple abrasions and lacerations and a fracture of the left foot. A passenger, Joseph Kovarik, 20, is in "satisfactory" condition with lacerations and abrasions.

Deputies said the Steubenville driver's 1957 car was demolished. The auto did not upset in the plunge, but came to a halt almost in a stream.

Gauker was cited for reckless driving.

Cleveland Back Sparkles At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland's Tom Matte, running for two touchdowns and passing for another, led the Scarlet or first team to a 20-0 victory over the Whites in a regulation intrasquad game winding up Ohio State's spring football drills Saturday.

Matte scored on a 10-yard rollout around left end and on an 11-yard run around right end, and also threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to end Paul Martin of Canton. He compiled 112 yards on 29 carries—about half the number of times the Scarlets ran the ball.

The Clevelander also completed five of 10 passes for 49 yards, and a 22-yarder was nullified by a penalty.

The game was played on a rain-swept field.

May Fellowship Observance Held By Lisbon Church Group

May Fellowship Day was observed by the Lisbon Council of United Church Women at St. Jacob's United Church of Christ Friday.

It began with a coverdish luncheon at noon in the Fellowship Hall. The tables were decorated in a spring theme with the speakers' table centered with dolls in pastel shades dancing around a May pole and individual tables featuring dolls in swings. Pastel-napkins and nutcups were favors and spring bouquets were used. Mrs. John Halverstadt and committee provided the decorations.

Brief Business Held

Mrs. Guy Frantz, president, presided for brief business and the program followed in the church.

Mrs. E. L. Sommers, chairman of world service, was in charge of the dedication service of numerous articles made by the women. The display included clothing for world service, shirts and bandages for leprosy patients, clean-up kits for migrants working in Ohio; layettes for babies of migrant workers and cribs for retarded children.

The theme was "Citizenship Free and Responsible." Mrs. Kenneth Clapsaddle was the presiding officer and welcomed the group with a call to worship, reading a meditation on the topic "Freedom."

Special music was given the Lisbon Music Study Club with Mrs. John Blocksom, Mrs. R. L. Marlatt and Mrs. Edward Nold singing, "Come Unto Me," with Mrs. Theodore Greener organist.

Offering Goes To Retarded

The offering was donated to the retarded children's class.

Ushers were Mrs. Dale Miller and Mrs. Cornell Monda.

Mrs. Raymond Kulow, wife of the Lutheran Church minister of Hubbard, was principal speaker, opening with prayer. She related that the American way of life is based on God and said in conclusion that "women of prayer are the greatest power of any nation."

The meeting closed with prayer. Guests were from Salem, Rogers and Lisbon.

The next meeting of the council will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, June 3 at the Leper Library.

Open Church Planned

Open church will be observed for the wedding of Miss Joann Lindesmith and John R. Hoey in the First Christian Church Sunday, May 22, at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Lindesmith is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Lindesmith of E. Pine St. and the late Earl H. Lindesmith and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hoey of Columbiana.

Miss Lindesmith attended Kent State University and is a secretary at the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. offices at Boardman. Hoey served three years in the Marine Corps and is associated with his father at Lehman's Hardware in Columbiana.

The Lisbon Lionettes, entertainment and civic group of Lisbon women, furnished the program for the mother - daughter banquet at the Presbyterian Church at Clarkson Friday night. Approximately 60 attended.

Music, Solos Given

Mrs. Alta Brooks was mistress of ceremonies and Harry Morris of the Lions Club was a guest and presented guitar music and solos.

The group will give a similar program for the mother - daughter banquet at the Methodist Church in Rogers tonight.

They will entertain residents of the County Home, Sunday at 2 p. m. and will also give them a treat.

Mrs. Don Lepley of E. Chestnut St. entertained club associates Friday night.

Two tables of 500 were in play with prizes won by Mrs. Glen Ward and Mrs. Duane Bruey. The hostess served lunch and bouquets of spring flowers were used throughout the home.

Mrs. Alfred Pierson of LaCroft, East Liverpool, will receive the club Friday, June 3.

Mrs. O. C. Caldwell of W. Lincoln Way was guest speaker at the May Fellowship Day service held in the Lutheran Church at East Palestine Friday.

Pastor's Wife Serves

Mrs. Thomas Hammerton, wife of the former pastor of the Lisbon First Methodist church, led devotions.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Cope of W. Lincoln Way have returned home after spending the past week in Conneaut with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cope.

Atty. Lynn R. Riddle attended a committee meeting of the State Bar Association Thursday in Cleveland. He was accompanied by his wife.

2 Boys Are Among 51 Eying Cooking Prizes

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fifty-one young cooks from 19 states spend today making their culinary specialities, aiming for prizes of cash and a European trip.

There are two boys among the contestants, age 12 to 20, at the second annual Junior Cookoff sponsored by the Kroger Co., a grocery chain, and the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

The boys, Ronald Hasken of Louisville, Ky., and James Sack, of Wyandotte, Mich., aim to prove that good cooking isn't just the province of girls.

Tools Valued At $200 Taken In Chester Case

The theft of over $200 worth of tools from the station wagon of a Chester contractor was reported Sunday morning to Chester police.

J. A. Lange of Florida Ave. said the rear door of his vehicle was pried open and the tool box taken sometime overnight while it was parked in front of his home. Lange, who installs storm windows and does home repairs, lost a set of tools in a similar theft five months ago.

Toss Of Coin May Determine Who Gets Timken Paintings

WASHINGTON (AP) — If officials of two art museums can't agree on how to divide 89 paintings left to the museums by the late Mrs. Lillian Guyer Timken, a coin will be tossed to settle the issue.

Mrs. Timken was the widow of William Robert Timken, co-founder of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., whose headquarters are in Canton, Ohio.

The paintings were found in her 24-room apartment in New York after her death last October.

But her will made no mention of how the paintings should be divided between the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

John Walker, director of the National Gallery, says he and James Rorimer, director of the Metropolitan, have decided on the coin-tossing routine to divide the paintings if they can't agree on who is to get what. The proceedings may take place at the Metropolitan next week, Walker said.

Here's how it will work:

The paintings have been divided into a series of two groups. For instance, one series may contain eight paintings, divided into two groups of four each.

In each series, Walker and Rorimer will announce at the same time which group they prefer. If each wants a different group, he gets what he wants. But if they both want the same group, a coin will be tossed and the winner gets his choice.

In one series, for example, these are the alternatives. Group One offers "Christ at the Well" by Rembrandt, "Madonna" by Van Dyck, a portrait by Gainsborough, and "Large Fete" by Pater. Group two offers "Love Letter" by Boucher, "Happy Family" by Fragonard, a portrait by Moroni, and "Deluge" by Turner.

The Timken collection also includes paintings by Titian, Veronese, Reynolds, Tiepolo, Raeburn, Watteau and other masters.

General Reported 'Fit' After Hospital Checkup

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad, who broke off a weekend golfing date in Bavaria and entered a hospital, felt "completely fit" again today, a member of his staff said.

Norstad, commander of NATO forces in Europe, felt "slightly unwell" while playing golf in Berchtesgaden Sunday, the aide said.

"Purely as a precautionary measure, doctors put the general into hospital for observation and checkup," the officer said.

U.S. Cattle Rancher Seized By Insurgents

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Nicaraguan authorities say an American cattle rancher was kidnaped last week by armed insurgents from Honduras who took him back across the border.

U. S. Embassy sources said the missing American was Thomas D. Capps, a native of Louisiana who came to Nicaragua two years ago. He has an estate in Las Marias Valley.

Jim Locke Given Award At Concert

Jim Locke, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Locke of Wyoming Ave., received the Joe Thornberry award at the annual spring concert of the East Liverpool High School Instrumental Music Department Friday night at the Memorial Auditorium.

The award, which is voted on by the teachers, is given to a member of the band who ranks high in citizenship, co-operates with the teachers and who has certain scholastic standings.

Mrs. Wayne Russell, president of the Band and Orchestra Mothers, made the presentation.

Ronald McAtee, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fudurich of St. George St. received the outstanding bandsman trophy, which was presented by Donald C. Allen, supervisor of instrumental music.

Allen also presented letters to the sophomores, silver pins to juniors who earned 200 points, and gold pins to seniors who earned 300 points.

Approximately 600 were in attendance.

More than half of the population (182,000) of El Paso, Texas, is Mexican.

May Fellowship Observance Held By Lisbon Church Group

May Fellowship Day was observed by the Lisbon Council of United Church Women at St. Jocob's United Church of Christ Friday.

It began with a coverdish luncheon at noon in the Fellowship Hall. The tables were decorated in a spring theme with the speakers' table centered with dolls in pastel shades dancing around a May pole and individual tables featuring dolls in swings. Pastel-napkins and nutcups were favors and spring bouquets were used. Mrs. John Halverstadt and committee provided the decorations.

Brief Business Held

Mrs. Guy Frantz, president, presided for brief business and the program followed in the church.

Mrs. E. L. Sommers, chairman of world service, was in charge of the dedication service of numerous articles made by the women. The display included clothing for world service, shirts and bandages for leprosy patients, clean-up kits for migrants working in Ohio; layettes for babies of migrant workers and cribs for retarded children.

The theme was "Citizenship Free and Responsible." Mrs. Kenneth Clapsaddle was the presiding officer and welcomed the group with a call to worship, reading a meditation on the topic "Freedom."

Special music was given the Lisbon Music Study Club with Mrs. John Blocksom, Mrs. R. L. Marlatt and Mrs. Edward Nold singing, "Come Unto Me," with Mrs. Theodore Greener organist.

Offering Goes To Retarded

Ushers were Mrs. Dale Miller and Mrs. Cornell Monda.

Mrs. Raymond Kulow, wife of the Lutheran Church minister of Hubbard, was principal speaker, opening with prayer. She related that the American way of life is based on God and said in conclusion that "women of prayer are the greatest power of any nation."

The meeting closed with prayer. Guests were from Salem, Rogers and Lisbon.

The next meeting of the council will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday, June 3 at the Leper Library.

Open Church Planned

Open church will be observed for the wedding of Miss Joann Lindesmith and John R. Hoey in the First Christian Church Sunday, May 22, at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Lindesmith is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Lindesmith of E. Pine St. and the late Earl H. Lindesmith and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hoey of Columbiana.

Miss Lindesmith attended Kent State University and is a secretary at the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. offices at Boardman. Hoey served three years in the Marine Corps and is associated with his father at Lehman's Hardware in Columbiana.

The Lisbon Lionettes, entertainment and civic group of Lisbon women, furnished the program for the mother - daughter banquet at the Presbyterian Church at Clarkson Friday night. Approximately 60 attended.

Music, Solos Given

Mrs. Alta Brooks was mistress of ceremonies and Harry Morris of the Lions Club was a guest and presented guitar music and solos.

The group will give a similar program for the mother - daughter banquet at the Methodist Church in Rogers tonight.

They will entertain residents of the County Home, Sunday at 2 p. m. and will also give them a treat.

Mrs. Don Lepley of E. Chestnut St. entertained club associates Friday night.

Two tables of 500 were in play with prizes won by Mrs. Glen Ward and Mrs. Duane Bruey. The hostess served lunch and bouquets of spring flowers were used throughout the home.

Mrs. Alfred Pierson of LaCroft, East Liverpool, will receive the club Friday, June 3.

Mrs. O. C. Caldwell of W. Lincoln Way was guest speaker at the May Fellowship Day service held in the Lutheran Church at East Palestine Friday.

Pastor's Wife Serves

Mrs. Thomas Hammerton, wife of the former pastor of the Lisbon First Methodist church, led devotions.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Cope of W. Lincoln Way have returned home after spending the past week in Conneaut with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cope.

Atty. Lynn R. Riddle attended a committee meeting of the State Bar Association Thursday in Cleveland. He was accompanied by his wife.

Toss Of Coin May Determine Who Gets Timken Paintings

WASHINGTON (AP) — If officials of two art museums can't agree on how to divide 89 paintings left to the museums by the late Mrs. Lillian Guyer Timken, a coin will be tossed to settle the issue.

Mrs. Timken was the widow of William Robert Timken, co-founder of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., whose headquarters are in Canton, Ohio.

The paintings were found in her 24-room apartment in New York after her death last October.

But her will made no mention of how the paintings should be divided between the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

John Walker, director of the National Gallery, says he and James Rorimer, director of the Metropolitan, have decided on the coin-tossing routine to divide the paintings if they can't agree on who is to get what. The proceedings may take place at the Metropolitan next week, Walker said.

Here's how it will work:

The paintings have been divided into a series of two groups. For instance, one series may contain eight paintings, divided into two groups of four each.

In each series, Walker and Rorimer will announce at the same time which group they prefer. If each wants a different group, he gets what he wants. But if they both want the same group, a coin will be tossed and the winner gets his choice.

In one series, for example, these are the alternatives. Group One offers "Christ at the Well" by Rembrandt, "Madonna" by Van Dyck, a portrait by Gainsborough, and "Large Fete" by Pater. Group two offers "Love Letter" by Boucher, "Happy Family" by Fragonard, a portrait by Moroni, and "Deluge" by Turner.

The Timken collection also includes paintings by Titian, Veronese, Reynolds, Tiepolo, Raeburn, Watteau and other masters.

Jim Locke Given Award At Concert

Jim Locke, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Locke of Wyoming Ave., received the Joe Thornberry award at the annual spring concert of the East Liverpool High School Instrumental Music Department Friday night at the Memorial Auditorium.

The award, which is voted on by the teachers, is given to a member of the band who ranks high in citizenship, co-operates with the teachers and who has certain scholastic standings.

Mrs. Wayne Russell, president of the Band and Orchestra Mothers, made the presentation.

Ronald McAtee, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fudurich of St. George St. received the outstanding bandsman trophy, which was presented by Donald C. Allen, supervisor of instrumental music.

Allen also presented letters to the sophomores, silver pins to juniors who earned 200 points, and gold pins to seniors who earned 300 points.

General Reported 'Fit' After Hospital Checkup

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad, who broke off a weekend golfing date in Bavaria and entered a hospital, felt "completely fit" again today, a member of his staff said.

Norstad, commander of NATO forces in Europe, felt "slightly unwell" while playing golf in Berchtesgaden Sunday, the aide said.

"Purely as a precautionary measure, doctors put the general into hospital for observation and checkup," the officer said.

The aide added Norstad would remain in the hospital for a day or two as a precautionary measure.
